TWO CENTS

PLANS FOR MURDER.

Mrs. George Discussed Them With a Lawyer.

TOLD HIM OF ALLEGED WRONGS.

She Would Not Get More Than Ten Years in Prison She Said She Would Kill Him—Another Witness Said She Heard Threats.

CANTON, O., April 14.—The feature of the proceedings in the trial of Mrs. George was the testimony of Attorney W. O. Wernitz, who had represented her in a number of civil actions prior to the killing of Saxton. He sought to evade testifying on the grounds that what he knew had been told him by Mrs. George and was a private communication between counsel and client. However, the court decided to admit the testimony.

Wernitz also told of a series of threats and plans for their execution on the part of Mrs. George against the life of Saxton, and the defense brought the remainder of the conversation out which proved to be three recitals of Mrs. George's version of her relation with Saxton and the wrongs she claims to have suffered at his hands.

After a decision from the judge the attorney said, in answer to the state's question:

"We talked about the Althouse case. She said she was going out to the Althouse residence to raise hell with Saxton. She said she had a 38-caliber revolver in her trunk. She had bought it in Chicago. She did not say what she was going to do with it."

"I had another conversation with her in my office the afternoon of that day. She said: 'When the suit for damages for alienating affections brought against Saxton by Sample C. George is settled there will be a funeral or a wedding.' She asked what effect it would have on the suit if she killed Saxton. I told her the result might be the same, but if she was going to kill him she had better wait until the case was settled. She said if she shot him she would make a good job of it; would give him all the balls she had."

"She asked if it would be a good plan to have two revolvers, throw one at his feet and shoot him with the other. I told her in view of the threats she had made against Saxton, no one would believe she had killed him in self-defense. She asked me how it would do to shoot him in the back and throw the revolver away."

In cross-examination, witness said Mrs. George had told him that Saxton had promised to marry her as soon as she got a divorce from her husband, and that he had persuaded her to get a divorce, furnishing money with which she went to Dakota to get the divorce; that after this he abandoned her, persecuted her, and had her arrested; that she was left without a home; that she had separated from a husband whom she loved until Saxton alienated her affections. She also said that Saxton had pursued her for several years before she yielded to his advances; that he had given her presents which she at first refused, but he had finally accomplished her ruin and left her without means of support to herself and children. During these conversations Mrs. George was excited and sometimes in tears, the witness said.

In re-direct examination he told of another conversation in which Mrs. George asked what the penalty would be if she killed Saxton, and said she would do it if there was nothing worse than ten years in penitentiary. She said she had suffered everything but death at Saxton's hands.

Mrs. Mary Finley is the woman with whom Mrs. George roomed for a period of over two years, and was introduced by the state principally to detail certain threats which she had heard Mrs. George make against Saxton.

The first of these threats related was said to have been made in October, 1897, when witness said Mrs. George told her:

"Just wait till the case of Sample C. George and Saxton is settled. I'll see to Saxton. I am going to ask Mayor Rice to go with me to Saxton's office. I am going to ask him what he will do for me, and if he does nothing, I'll shoot Saxton so full of lead that he will stand still."

Witness said she told Mrs. George: "You will go to the penitentiary."

Mrs. George replied: "Only for a few years. What's that?"

Early in 1898 witness credited another threat to Mrs. George, in which she said: "I wish I could see Harry Clark. I want him to buy me a revolver."

She further said that if Clark would not get her a revolver she would go to Mayor Rice and get one; he had lots of them, taken from people arrested. She would make him give her a good one, she said. She would not have anything but a self-acting one. Still another threat was detailed by the witness, in which, among other things, Mrs. George said:

"I'll fix him; I'll not do it like a coward. I'll go up in front of him, and let him know who I am."

One or two other threats were detailed in similar terms, and also a visit of Mrs. George to the Althouse residence, where she prevented Saxton from entering the house and clung to him as he went away.

and followed him a long distance' as 'he was seeking to get away from her to the door of the Saxton block, where she left him, because of the injunction restraining her. Mrs. Finley's testimony was given clear and concise, but the vehemence of Mr. Welby's cross-examination seemed to disconcert her.

GRADY REPLIED TO FLINN.

Said He Would Call a Caucus—Latter Said He Wanted the Dead-lock Broken.

HARRISBURG, April 14.—Senator Grady handed Senator Flinn a reply to his letter suggesting a conference between committees of the two factions to discuss the contest for United States senator, saying in part:

"The joint caucus held in January last, which has now passed into the domain of legislative history, did not, as chairman, clothe me with authority to appoint a conference committee, but as the proposition submitted by you may have an important bearing upon the matter it should be brought to the attention of those now voting for the caucus nominee of the Republican party, so I feel it my duty to at once issue a call for a meeting to be held on Monday evening next."

Senator Grady issued a call for a conference of the Republican senators and members voting for Mr. Quay in the supreme court chamber on Monday evening.

The anti-Quay Republicans voted for Alvin Markle, the Hazleton coal operator and banker, at the joint ballot for United States senator.

A meeting of the anti-Quay Republicans was held, at which it was decided to send a communication to Senator John C. Grady of Philadelphia, chairman of the Republican caucus that nominated Senator Quay, suggesting a conference, "with a view of adjusting factional differences and the election of a senator. An early reply will oblige."

Resolutions of thanks to Van Valkenburg were adopted.

There will be but five more ballots for senator, including today, according to parliamentary authorities, who hold that no vote can be taken on the last day, next Thursday, as the sine die adjournment is fixed for the same hour as the ballot—12 o'clock. There are some who hold that a ballot is required by law every day when the legislature is in session, but they are in a minority.

The ballot Thursday resulted: Quay, 94; Jenks, 74; Markle, 53; total vote, 221; necessary to a choice, 111; paired or not voting, 32; no election.

TO SAIL FOR SAMOA.

Commission Expected to Go on a U. S. Naval Transport—Sternburg to Represent Germany.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The Samoan commission will sail probably for Apia on the United States naval transport Badger, leaving San Francisco on the 25th inst. This arrangement was made after Baron Speck von Sternburg, first secretary of the German embassy, had called on Secretary Hay and advised him of his appointment as the German member of the high commission. This completed the body. As the plan to have the members get away on the Mariposa, sailing on the 19th, was no longer feasible, the transport Badger, now at Callao, Peru, on her way to San Francisco, was placed at the disposal of the commission. She is a large, serviceable ship, with first-class accommodations for the commissioners. On her trip out she probably will take supplies for the Philadelphia.

The formal announcement of Baron Sternburg's appointment was received from the German foreign office, and gave general satisfaction among officials and diplomats, as throughout the recent troubles he exerted his influence in such manner as to win the hearty approval of the state department as well as the British ambassador. His choice, therefore, was accepted as an evidence that the commissioners would be able to cooperate and to reach the unanimous decision called for by the agreement. The early sailing of the commission was regarded as evidence that the recent collision at Apia will be settled diplomatically.

To Dissolve a Fuel Company.

COLUMBUS, April 14.—Steps were taken here which will result in the formal dissolution of the Central Ohio Fuel company on May 1. The reasons for the dissolution are said to be the change of scale and the new basis of wages for the ensuing year. The pool controlled the output of the Sunday Creek valley.

John A. Barnes Married.

CLEVELAND, April 14.—John A. Barnes, the former husband of the wife of Frank A. Magowan, former mayor of Trenton, was secretly married to Miss Anna Minch of this city. The wedding occurred at Warren, O., whether the couple went without letting their friends into the secret. They are at home in Glenville, a suburb of Cleveland.

General Wheeler Wants to Fight.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Gen. Joseph Wheeler made a call at the White House. He said he desired active service in the Philippines, and if not assigned to active duty, will resign. He expects to resign before the Fifty-sixth congress meets, to take his seat in the house of representative.

FILIPINOS FRIENDLY.

Schurman Said the Proclamation Had Done Good.

VISITING THE COMMISSIONERS.

Natives Called and Expressed Satisfaction and a Desire to Become Citizens of the United States—Aguinaldo Tyrannical—Outpost Attacked by Rebels.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—President McKinley received a dispatch from Dr. Schurman, president of the Philippine commission, now at Manila, the message saying that the proclamation recently issued had done great good, and that Filipinos are visiting the commissioners every day to express their satisfaction and their desire to become citizens of this country. The message also stated that Filipinos coming into Manila declare that Aguinaldo's government is tyrannical, and that many natives are deserting from his standard each day.

MANILA, April 14.—At about 4 o'clock Thursday morning a small body of rebels attacked the camp of the Third artillery from the swamp near Paombon, a mile and a half west of Malolos. Two privates were killed and a lieutenant and two others were wounded.

With the coming of daylight the American forces scoured the district, driving the rebels northward and killing several of them. A private soldier of the Montana regiment was wounded.

Francisco Reyes, the man who recently purchased the Spanish gunboats at Zamboanga, island of Mindanao, received advices to the effect that the fleet sailed for Manila and returned a few days later with the vessels stripped of their arms and ammunition. The purchaser's agent and native crews for the vessels, on board the American steamer Butuan, were conveyed to Zamboanga by the United States cruiser Boston and were instructed to wait for the arrival there of the United States gunboat Petrel.

Instead of so doing, after the Boston sailed from Zamboanga the Spaniards transferred the gunboats to the agents of Senor Reyes and the fleet left Zamboanga unescorted. They soon returned and reported having been boarded by rebels, who removed the gunboats' armaments. If the instructions of the American naval commander had been obeyed the capture would have been impossible.

Zamboanga was fortified and was yet garrisoned by Spaniards and the affair was regarded as suspicious.

For Sheriff,

J. E. McDONALD.

Why?

Because he is eminently fitted for the position.

Because he has been and is an earnest worker for East Liverpool.

Because he is the friend of the workingman and mechanic.

Because he is your home candidate, and works for your interests.

Read his warm approval by union men.

UNION MEN!

Read What Secretary P. J. McKeone Says of J. E. McDonald.

The statement having been made that the Brotherhood of Operative potters had endorsed a candidate, P. J. McKeone, secretary of the Brotherhood, was interviewed today. He said:

"The Brotherhood has not endorsed any candidate and there is no truth in the statement. Mr. J. E. McDonald has always been recognized as a friend by the workingmen and he should get their support. It is the aim of unions to stay out of politics and no union has endorsed a candidate. Mr. McDonald is known by us to be a friend of union men and they will stand by their home candidate. I think a song I heard once very aptly applies in this case. It is 'Charity Begins at Home,' and the workingmen will remember it tomorrow."

—Miss Jennie McGavern, who has been spending several days in Akron, has returned to the city.

CHICAGO PLATFORM STANDS.

Bryan Said There Would Be No Backward Step—New Issues That Democracy Will Meet.

MILWAUKEE, April 14.—The Jefferson club of Milwaukee observed the natal day of the founder of Democracy by a banquet at the Plankinton House attended by over 400 guests. Colonel William J. Bryan of Nebraska was the guest of honor and delivered the principal address. He spoke on Democracy.

In opening, he said: "We are now near enough to the next campaign to be able to form some idea of the lines along which the contest will be fought, and I am taking no risk when I say that those who in 1896 gave their allegiance to the Chicago platform are as united today in the determination that no step taken in 1896 shall be retraced."

Some people, he said, advised that the money issue be abandoned, because of the defeat in 1896. If the attitude of the party was right then, it was right now. Said he in part:

"In 1888 Mr. Cleveland was defeated on the tariff issue, and yet the tariff was made the main issue in 1892 and Mr. Cleveland was elected. In 1892 Mr. Harrison was defeated largely on account of the McKinley bill, and four years later the author of the bill was nominated upon a platform reaffirming the belief in protection and was successful."

Further along he said in part: "The attempt of the Republican party to retire the greenbacks and substitute for them national bank notes will give to that question a greater prominence than it enjoyed in 1896."

"If the value of the bank note is dependent upon the government, how can it be any better than the government's own paper and why should the government pay national banks a bonus to induce them to issue bank notes which are in no respects superior and in some respects inferior to the greenbacks issued by the government and for which the people pay no bonus?"

In referring to the trusts he said in part:

"The milk trust reaches the infant as he enters the world, the ice trust cools him in the summer, the coal trust keeps him warm in the winter, while the coffin trust waits to receive him when life's fitful dream is over. The people are beginning to see what the principle of monopoly really means, and yet the principle of monopoly, so plainly illustrated by the industrial trusts, does not differ at all from the principle of monopoly which underlies both the gold standard and the paper money trusts."

He then opposed the increase in the standing army and imperialism, pointing out that there was much similarity in the promises made in the proclamation made to the people of India by the queen in 1859 and in the recent proclamation of the United States commission to the Filipinos. Said he:

Mayor Carter Harrison of Chicago was one of the speakers.

CATHOLIC EDUCATORS ORGANIZED.

Committee on Organization to Arrange For Future Conferences.

CHICAGO, April 14.—At the meeting of Catholic educators the committee on organization made a preliminary report outlining plans. The new organization was christened the Association of Catholic Colleges of the United States. The body will meet next year and decide later whether the sessions will be held annually or every two years.

The committee on organization was made a standing committee to arrange for future conferences and pass upon educational matters referred to it.

On the River.

The marks at the wharf this morning were the same as yesterday, but more rain is expected and a rise will be the result.

The Greenwood will be down tonight and the Queen City went up with a good trip. The Ben Hur went south last night with a freight trip. The Lorena will go south tomorrow evening.

Changes at the Office.

A number of changes are being made on the postoffice room. The electric wires are being put under the plaster, and after this is done the room will be papered and painted. The work is being done at the expense of the owners of the building.

Accepted an Invitation.

The Junior Mechanics at their meeting last evening accepted an invitation to attend a literary and social to be given by the Chester council next Tuesday evening.

Moved Loafers.

Last evening the police dispersed the loafers who were standing on uptown corners. In one instance one of the loafers had to be threatened with arrest before he would move.

RED BOOK FIGURED.

Rothermel Got In Some Points Against Quay.

BANK MINUTE BOOK ADMITTED.

Through It There Was Brought In a Letter Damaging to Dick Quay—Defense Objected Strenuously—Witness Said Hopkins Was the Whole Bank.

PHILADELPHIA, April 14.—Proceedings in the trial of ex-Senator Quay were tedious, but nevertheless interesting in their bearing upon the future of the case. District Attorney Rothermel placed upon the stand in succession the paying teller, receiving teller and bookkeepers of the broken People's bank to prove the books. All of these, in answer to questions, made reference to Senator Quay's account and the bookkeepers said they had entered the figures, but none of the books were opened to show what the nature of the account was. This will be done later. All of the bank employees on cross-examination stated that they had never seen Senator Quay's deposit book and they did not believe there was one. It had been hinted that the defense would claim that Senator Quay's account in the ledger was fictitious as far as he was concerned and that the senator's name was used by Hopkins as a cloak for his own personal transactions. The cross-examination would seem to bear out this theory.

The "red book" was a big feature of the day's proceedings, figuring indirectly in the testimony of several witnesses. Its pages were gone over repeatedly and the question of its identification with the business of the bank was discussed, and when court adjourned a handwriting expert was on the stand identifying the writing in it as the work of Hopkins. All of this was accomplished by the district attorney in spite of the protests of the three acute, aggressive lawyers employed by Senator Quay, who fought in vain against the web of circumstantial evidence, involving the "red book" to such an extent that it seems almost certain that this necessary piece of evidence will have to be admitted after all.

It was evident from the district attorney's attitude that he proposes to formally offer the book in evidence in a day or two, and he appears confident of his ability to introduce the testimony which its pages contain and which is so vital in the establishment of the charge of conspiracy between Quay, Hrywood and Hopkins to use the money of the state for illicit gain. As the latter two are dead, only Senator Quay remains to face the charge.

The most interesting witness of the day was Clay Kemble, son of William H. Kemble, deceased, the founder of the People's bank. Mr. Kemble was assistant cashier and a director as well. He did not take a very active part in the operation of the bank, being there as a representative of his father's estate. On cross-examination he denied having any bias against anybody connected with the failure of the bank, and said neither he nor his mother was behind the prosecution.

When asked what Hopkins' duties were, he replied:

"He was the whole bank." While this witness was on the stand the district attorney gained a signal victory by securing the admission of the minute book of the bank, in which Cashier Hopkins kept a record of the meetings of board of directors. The particular entry bearing on the Quay case which the district attorney was anxious to get in, is under date of Aug. 3, 1896. It reads:

"The only offering for a loan before the board was the note of (Senator) Arthur Kennedy and R. R. Quay endorsed by M. S. Quay, with stock of — attached. It was agreed to make this loan provided R. R. Quay complied with the president's request for a certain letter."

The "certain letter" is the one which is regarded as the most damaging evidence against Senator Quay's son. It was as follows:

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA,
TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
HARRISBURG, July 31, 1896.

James McManes, Esq., People's Bank, Philadelphia:

"DEAR SIR—On Monday we will mail you a check for $100,000 for credit of commonwealth of Pennsylvania general fund, which will make a credit to our account of $600,000. The understanding is that I am not to draw against any part of this deposit until the Hon. R. R. Quay has paid or arranged satisfactory to you the loan of $100,000, which you are to make him next week."

"Very truly,
"B. F. HAYWOOD,
"State Treasurer."

The defense objected strenuously to the minute book, saying that although the $100,000 note bears Senator Quay's endorsement, he knew nothing whatever of the letter from Haywood and had nothing to do with the juggling of state money indicated by it. The district attorney claimed that the loan was virtually made to Senator Quay and that Haywood received interest on the deposit. Judge Biddle said he would overrule the objection, as the offer tended to prove the existence of a conspiracy.

THE EAST END.

VIRGINIA AVENUE FOLKS

Want the Street Improved Without Delay.

WATCHING WORK ON THE POTTERY

Curious Crowds Are Seen There Every Day--Mail For Manila--An Indication of Growth--One Annoying Drunk--Four Families Came to Town This Week.

Residents of Virginia avenue are of the opinion the street should be improved, and with this end in view will probably petition council within the next month to do the work. The street is at present in a deplorable condition. Pedestrians cross Lake's run on a foot bridge only a few feet wide while teamsters drive through the water. When the street was first laid out it had a width of 50 feet but at the lower end near the railroad it is not more than 25 feet wide, caused by a large amount of sewer pipe being stored over the line. When the new pottery is completed the street will be extensively traveled and it should be improved as soon as possible.

Everybody Glad.

The people of East End are jubilant now that work has actually commenced upon the erection of the new Laughlin pottery. All day yesterday and today small crowds of men went to the place, and after watching the workmen awhile returned to their homes. Several women were also seen peeping over the high fence watching the progress of the work. Contractors McHenry and Schmelzenbach were seen yesterday in regard to when the work on the foundation would commence, and the latter gentleman stated that the first load of stone was delivered on the ground yesterday morning and the stone masons would start Monday. The brick for the walls and kilns has been ordered, but will not be delivered until the switch is built. Work on the latter, it is said, will start not later than next Monday.

Be proud of your ballot. Cast it for A. H. McCoy.

He will make a good official. Vote for him. Who? J. E. McDonald, of course.

The Pastor Preached.

Another interesting service was held in the Second Presbyterian church, last night. The attendance was very good, and the pastor, Rev. N. M. Crowe, preached an interesting sermon. Tonight Dr. John Lloyd Lee will speak. No services will be held tomorrow night, and the program as published in this paper early in the week will be followed Sunday.

Your home candidate deserves your vote. Cast it for J. E. McDonald.

Vote for W. A. Tarr for Infirmary Director.

An Annoying Drunk.

A young man, in an intoxicated condition, yesterday afternoon caused the workmen at the Pennsylvania culvert much annoyance. He got on the car track, and when taken from there by a workman laid down on a pile of stones. He was about to fall in the water when a friend appeared and took him home.

Nearing Completion.

The new house being erected in Erie street by James Fulton will be completed within a few weeks.

The residence being erected in Mulberry street by Capt. Abner Martin will be ready for occupancy by the last of the month.

Your home candidate deserves your vote. Cast it for J. E. McDonald.

See that you put in a vote for McCoy tomorrow for State Senator.

An Indication of Growth.

The quarterly report recently compiled by Postmaster Baird shows a remarkable growth over the report of the last quarter. So far this month the business has been very good and a better report is expected at the end of this quarter.

Your home candidate deserves your vote. Cast it for J. E. McDonald.

New Members.

At a recent meeting of the French China Beneficial society several new members were received. The society is in an excellent condition, and so far the sick benefits that have been paid are few.

Vote for McCoy for State Senator--the workman, the soldier, the tried and true legislator.

Increased by One.

Another man has been added to the already large force of employes at the brick yard. The new machinery recently ordered by the company has not arrived, and no one is able to tell when it will.

Your home candidate deserves your vote. Cast it for J. E. McDonald.

Papers Sent to Manila.

During the week Postmaster Baird has sent a large number of papers to Manila. They were addressed to members of regiments now in that country who were at one time residents of East End.

Be proud of your ballot. Cast it for A. H. McCoy.

Taken a Position.

Charles Bond, for several years employed as a motorman on the street car line, has resigned his position and has taken one on the Cleveland and Pittsburgh road as fireman.

No man can truly say anything against J. E. McDonald. He is a good citizen and a bright business man.

Four Came This Week.

Mr. and Mrs. Mensimer and family have moved to this part of the city from Pittsburg. During the week four families have moved their effects to East End.

April water assessments now due. Save the 10 per cent by prompt payment. Office down stairs, 144 Fourth street.

TENTH ANNIVERSARY

Will be Observed by the Epworth League May 14.

On May 14 the Epworth league of the First M. E. church will observe their tenth anniversary.

During the morning of that date the Junior society will have charge of the services, while the Senior society will meet during the afternoon and evening.

Families Came to Town This Week.

Residents of Virginia avenue are of the opinion the street should be improved, and with this end in view will probably petition council within the next month to do the work. The street is at present in a deplorable condition. Pedestrians cross Lake's run on a foot bridge only a few feet wide while teamsters drive through the water. When the street was first laid out it had a width of 50 feet but at the lower end near the railroad it is not more than 25 feet wide, caused by a large amount of sewer pipe being stored over the line. When the new pottery is completed the street will be extensively traveled and it should be improved as soon as possible.

Everybody Glad.

The people of East End are jubilant now that work has actually commenced upon the erection of the new Laughlin pottery. All day yesterday and today small crowds of men went to the place, and after watching the workmen awhile returned to their homes. Several women were also seen peeping over the high fence watching the progress of the work. Contractors McHenry and Schmelzenbach were seen yesterday in regard to when the work on the foundation would commence, and the latter gentleman stated that the first load of stone was delivered on the ground yesterday morning and the stone masons would start Monday. The brick for the walls and kilns has been ordered, but will not be delivered until the switch is built. Work on the latter, it is said, will start not later than next Monday.

A REPUBLICAN CITIZEN

Speaks Warm Words of Praise
For J. E. McDonald,

WHO IS OUR HOME CANDIDATE

Republican Citizen Believes That J. E. McDonald Is Worthy, From Every Standpoint, of the Support of the Republican Voters of East Liverpool, and Urges That We Should Take Pride In Giving Him a Rousing Majority.

EDITOR NEWS REVIEW:—James E. McDonald is my personal friend. I have been intimately acquainted with him for the past 17 years. I have had numerous business transactions with him, and have found him to be a square and honorable business man. He possesses business characteristics which have won him warm commendation. His tenacity of purpose has become a by-word among his acquaintances. He had full faith that he would eventually be able to have a handsome bridge span the Ohio river at this point. He was laughed at and ridiculed respecting this matter; but he persevered and won out, and the citizens of East Liverpool point with pride to the connecting link with West Virginia.

He believed that he could secure great industries and persuade them to locate in this section. Again he was the subject of much merriment; but the result has demonstrated his wisdom and forethought, and we shall, ere long, have a splendid rolling mill in our immediate vicinity.

He believed that he would be able to induce railroad transportation other than that in existence at this point. Again was he called visionary and flighty. But there was method in his madness, and the result of his battle will be of inestimable value to East Liverpool and the surrounding country.

Why do I call him deserving of place and position? What right have I, his friend, to urge that he is worthy of your franchise? What has he done for East Liverpool?

First, he is a business man, capable and trustworthy, energetic and pushing, possessing characteristics which are much-to-be-desired in an official.

Second, he has demonstrated that he is worthy of your confidence and esteem. For 17 years he has resided in your midst, a Republican of Republicans, stalwart and true, always and ever working for the best interests and success of the party. He is YOUR HOME CANDIDATE, and you have a right, all things being equal, to cast your ballot for your home man, and feel proud that you have such a representative in the field. Other points are being canvassed very earnestly from this standpoint, and other candidates are urging that they should have the solid vote of their home constituency. My friend, J. E. McDonald, will not urge this feature, nor will he say a single word against his opponent. McDonald believes in a clean canvass, and I am very proud of this fact—proud that my friend is deserving and that I have a right to honor him.

And, finally, he has done much for East Liverpool. How? By inducing enterprises to center at this point. The ball has been started rolling by J. E. McDonald, and, just as sure as fate, new and extensive business enterprises, manufactories, etc., will be attracted to this great business center. The facilities for transportation cannot be excelled. The sites are all that men can ask for. The outlook is that East Liverpool will bloom and blossom like the rose. And J. E. McDonald has demonstrated the fact that he had full faith in this desired consummation when others faltered and doubted. Surely, J. E. McDonald has done much for East Liverpool.

Believing this, and being proud of my friend and co-worker, the friend and warm advocate of the workingman and mechanic, I earnestly urge that you shall cast your ballots for our home candidate for sheriff, Mr. James E. McDonald, on Saturday, April 15, 1899.

REPUBLICAN CITIZEN.

Elijah W. Hill has been a toiler all his life. He is the warm friend of the workingman and mechanic. He is a Unionist from principle, staunch and true. A. G. Smith Was Thrown From His Buggy at Lisbon.

LISBON, April 14.—[Special.]—A. G. Smith, president of the Lisbon Gas company, met with an accident Thursday afternoon. He had stopped his team at the electric light plant, thrown the lines around the whip and was getting out of the buggy when the horses became frightened and started to run, throwing Mr. Smith into the street. His collar bone was broken and he was badly bruised. Mr. Smith is 83 years old. The horses ran along West Washington to Walnut, and to a point near their owner's residence, where they collided with a heavy wagon. The horses were not hurt, but Mr. Lack, driver of the wagon, has a bruised hand.

An honest man, whose word is as good as his bond, carries with him a recommendation unsurpassed, and he deserves recognition at the hands of the masses. Such a man is Elijah W. Hill. No man in East Liverpool can truthfully say aught against him. Cast your ballot for Elijah W. Hill on Saturday, April 15.

Remember that W. A. Tarr will especially look after the interests of Southern Columbiana county if he is selected for Infirmary Director. He is a native of Yellow Creek township.

L. C. HOOPES.

His Record as Infirmary Director Is Above Reproach.

L. C. Hoopes, who is a candidate for renomination as infirmary director, is so well known in East Liverpool that to mention his name recalls him to mind. His record is above reproach, and no word can be said against him. He has always performed his duties conscientiously and well, and certainly deserves the support he seeks. Mr. Hoopes is a man who ever has the interests of the county at heart, and is deserving of a big vote tomorrow.

J. E. M'DONALD.

He has started big wheels of prosperity for the city of East Liverpool, and for this entire section, and he deserves the warm thanks of the workingmen of East Liverpool and vicinity, and the toilers ought to show their appreciation of this fact by casting their ballots for J. E. McDonald for Sheriff on Saturday, April 15.

Hon. A. H. McCoy is the choice of the masses for the position of State Senator. He will do honor to the state and to the county. He is a manly man. You will make no mistake in casting your ballot for him on Saturday, April 15.

L. C. HOOPES.

His Record as Infirmary Director Is Above Reproach.

L. C. Hoopes, who is a candidate for renomination as infirmary director, is so well known in East Liverpool that to mention his name recalls him to mind. His record is above reproach, and no word can be said against him. He has always performed his duties conscientiously and well, and certainly deserves the support he seeks. Mr. Hoopes is a man who ever has the interests of the county at heart, and is deserving of a big vote tomorrow.

J. E. McDONALD.

He has started big wheels of prosperity for the city of East Liverpool, and for this entire section, and he deserves the warm thanks of the workingmen of East Liverpool and vicinity, and the toilers ought to show their appreciation of this fact by casting their ballots for J. E. McDonald for Sheriff on Saturday, April 15.

Hon. A. H. McCoy is the choice of the masses for the position of State Senator. He will do honor to the state and to the county. He is a manly man. You will make no mistake in casting your ballot for him on Saturday, April 15.

A REPUBLICAN CITIZEN

For J. E. McDonald,

Republican Citizen Believes That J. E. McDonald Is Worthy, From Every Standpoint, of the Support of the Republican Voters of East Liverpool, and Urges That We Should Take Pride In Giving Him a Rousing Majority.

EDITOR NEWS REVIEW:—James E. McDonald is my personal friend. I have been intimately acquainted with him for the past 17 years. I have had numerous business transactions with him, and have found him to be a square and honorable business man. He possesses business characteristics which have won him warm commendation. His tenacity of purpose has become a by-word among his acquaintances. He had full faith that he would eventually be able to have a handsome bridge span the Ohio river at this point. He was laughed at and ridiculed respecting this matter; but he persevered and won out, and the citizens of East Liverpool point with pride to the connecting link with West Virginia.

He believed that he could secure great industries and persuade them to locate in this section. Again he was the subject of much merriment; but the result has demonstrated his wisdom and forethought, and we shall, ere long, have a splendid rolling mill in our immediate vicinity.

He believed that he would be able to induce railroad transportation other than that in existence at this point. Again was he called visionary and flighty. But there was method in his madness, and the result of his battle will be of inestimable value to East Liverpool and the surrounding country.

Why do I call him deserving of place and position? What right have I, his friend, to urge that he is worthy of your franchise? What has he done for East Liverpool?

First, he is a business man, capable and trustworthy, energetic and pushing, possessing characteristics which are much-to-be-desired in an official.

Second, he has demonstrated that he is worthy of your confidence and esteem. For 17 years he has resided in your midst, a Republican of Republicans, stalwart and true, always and ever working for the best interests and success of the party. He is YOUR HOME CANDIDATE, and you have a right, all things being equal, to cast your ballot for your home man, and feel proud that you have such a representative in the field. Other points are being canvassed very earnestly from this standpoint, and other candidates are urging that they should have the solid vote of their home constituency. My friend, J. E. McDonald, will not urge this feature, nor will he say a single word against his opponent. McDonald believes in a clean canvass, and I am very proud of this fact—proud that my friend is deserving and that I have a right to honor him.

And, finally, he has done much for East Liverpool. How? By inducing enterprises to center at this point. The ball has been started rolling by J. E. McDonald, and, just as sure as fate, new and extensive business enterprises, manufacturing, etc., will be attracted to this great business center. The facilities for transportation cannot be excelled. The sites are all that men can ask for. The outlook is that East Liverpool will bloom and blossom like the rose. And J. E. McDonald has demonstrated the fact that he had full faith in this desired consummation when others faltered and doubted. Surely, J. E. McDonald has done much for East Liverpool.

Believing this, and being proud of my friend and co-worker, the friend and warm advocate of the workingman and mechanic, I earnestly urge that you shall cast your ballots for our home candidate for sheriff, Mr. James E. McDonald, on Saturday, April 15, 1899.

REPUBLICAN CITIZEN.

Elijah W. Hill has been a toiler all his life. He is the warm friend of the workingman and mechanic. He is a Unionist from principle, staunch and true. By hard work and earnest study, by night and by day, he has educated himself to that standard by which he will do honor to the people he represents. Workingmen and mechanics, toilers everywhere, cast your ballots for Elijah W. Hill for the berth of Representative on next Saturday April 15.

COLLAR BONE BROKEN.

A. G. Smith Was Thrown From His Buggy at Lisbon.

LISBON, April 14.—[Special.]—A. G. Smith, president of the Lisbon Gas company, met with an accident Thursday afternoon. He had stopped his team at the electric light plant, thrown the lines around the whip and was getting out of the buggy when the horses became frightened and started to run, throwing Mr. Smith into the street. His collar bone was broken and he was badly bruised. Mr. Smith is 33 years old. The horses ran along West Washington to Walnut, and to a point near their owner's residence, where they collided with a heavy wagon. The horses were not hurt, but Mr. Lack, driver of the wagon, has a bruised hand.

An honest man, whose word is as good as his bond, carries with him a recommendation unsurpassed, and he deserves recognition at the hands of the masses. Such a man is Elijah W. Hill. No man in East Liverpool can truthfully say aught against him. Cast your ballot for Elijah W. Hill on Saturday, April 15.

Remember that W. A. Tarr will especially look after the interests of Southern Columbiana county if he is selected for Infirmary Director. He is a native of Yellow Creek township.

East Liverpool should stand by her home candidate for Sheriff, J. E. McDonald, a friend of the masses, a worker for our city.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., FRIDAY, APRIL 14.

All Union papers of East Liverpool are known to the various craft and unions of the city by the printing of the above Union Labels at the head of their columns

CROKER is probably satisfied. He had his dinner and the band played "Hail to the Chief."

THE real battle will take place tomorrow afternoon, and the candidates nominated will fill the offices they seek.

It is sincerely hoped that Quay, his friends and enemies, will soon settle that senatorial matter, for the country is certainly tired of the whole proceeding.

WHEN President McKinley is ready, Secretary Alger will step down and out. Until that time the public wastes breath and the correspondents paper in discussing the matter.

GERMAN newspapers are expressing sorrow for America because two of our naval officers were murdered in Samoa; and how much did Germany have to do with that murder.

STEADILY and with a thoroughness which Aguinaldo will some day see, the American soldier is making his way in the Philippines and carrying out a policy that will deliver the people from the deplorable conditions under which they live.

It is not news to the world that the Filipinos are not capable of self-government, but it is probably a revelation to the rabid anti-expansionists of the east who seem to have been talking much upon very little information—that is, if they are honest in their views.

YOUR HOME CANDIDATE.

All things being equal, your home candidate should have your vote. You have a right to be proud of your city and of good citizens.

CAST YOUR BALLOT.

Cast your ballot tomorrow in a manner which will enable you to maintain your self respect. You are a sovereign for the time being. Let no man on earth degrade your manhood.

CITY COUNCIL.

The old council, dictatorial and unjust, did work defiant of all laws and ordinances. Why? Simply because the people were not on the alert. So flagrant did these lawless occurrences become that forbearance ceased to be a virtue, and a spirit has been aroused which will not down. Any attempt on the part of the present council to act in an illegal manner will meet with stern opposition and successful hindrance. Some of the members do not need this reminder—some of them do.

FOR REPRESENTATIVE.

The People of Salem Appreciate Elijah W. Hill.

The following article, clipped from the Salem Herald, speaks volumes for our young townsman. Our East Liverpool voters have just cause to be proud of Elijah W. Hill. Show your appreciation on Saturday by giving him your votes:

"The race for representative is, in all probability, the most hotly contested of the three, inasmuch as there are three strong men entered, W. B. McCord, East Liverpool; Elijah W. Hill, East Liverpool; and Samuel Buell, of this city. McCord, in the earlier part of the fight, was a strong factor and the impression was that he would win the prize in a walkover. The withdrawal of a number of candidates has concentrated the vote to a certain extent, and the later entering of the race by Buell took from McCord a large vote from the northern part of the county, on which he had largely relied. This leaves Buell and Hill the masters of the situation. Of the two in this city, Buell will have the largest following and will poll a large vote. He is well known and

CROKER is probably satisfied. He had his dinner and the band played "Hail to the Chief."

The real battle will take place to morrow afternoon, and the candidates nominated will fill the offices they seek.

It is sincerely hoped that Quay, his friends and enemies, will soon settle that senatorial matter, for the country is certainly tired of the whole proceeding.

WHEN President McKinley is ready,
Secretary Alger will step down and out.
Until that time the public wastes breath and the correspondents paper in discussing the matter.

GERMAN newspapers are expressing sorrow for America because two of our

STEADILY and with a thoroughness

the Philippines and carrying out a policy that will deliver the people from the deplorable conditions under which they live.

It is not news to the world that the Filipinos are not capable of self-government, but it is probably a revelation to the rabid anti-expansionists of the east who seem to have been talking much upon very little information—that is, if they are honest in their views.

CITY COUNCIL.

The old council, dictatorial and unjust, did work defiant of all laws and ordinances. Why? Simply because the people were not on the alert. So flagrant did these lawless occurrences become that forbearance ceased to be a virtue, and a spirit has been aroused which will not down. Any attempt on the part of the present council to act in an illegal manner will meet with stern opposition and successful hindrance.
Some of the members do not need this reminder—some of them do.

The People of Salem Appreciate Elijah W.
Hill.

The following article, clipped from the Salem Herald, speaks volumes for our young townsman. Our East Liverpool voters have just cause to be proud of Elijah W. Hill. Show your appreciation on Saturday by giving him your votes:

"The race for representative is, in all probability, the most hotly contested of the three, inasmuch as there are three strong men entered, W. B. McCord, East Liverpool; Elijah W. Hill, East Liverpool, and Samuel Buell, of this city. McCord, in the earlier part of the fight, was a strong factor and the impression was that he would win the prize in a walkover. The withdrawal of a number of candidates has concentrated the vote to a certain extent, and the later entering of the race by Buell took from McCord a large vote from the northern part of the county, on which he had largely relied. This leaves Buell and Hill the masters of the situation. Of the two in this city, Buell will have the largest following and will poll a large vote. He is well known and is making an aggressive campaign.

The prospects for his nomination look exceptionally bright if the vote in the southern part of the county can be badly split by Hill and McCord. Hill, however, is a dangerous factor. He is aggressive, young, well educated, has a pleasing manner and possesses ideas which are in accordance with the times, and would make himself conspicuous in the legislature. He is at present a justice of the peace in East Liverpool, where he is a great favorite, especially among the pottery workers and other laborers. He is an ideal campaigner, and since the opening of the fight has met personally fully one-half of the voters of the county and expects to meet the rest before the county primaries. Hill certainly is a lively candidate, and it would appear that he who beats him will land the coveted plum. Certainly no candidate should overlook him

AIDED BY KINDRED CHARACTERS

Connected With the Old Council, of Most Unsavory Reputation—The Action of the Expiring Members Meets With Hot Condemnation.

To clean and honest citizens of East
Liverpool, men who believe in justice
and fair play, the writer dedicates this article, satisfied that honorable men will back and support an honest man in the publication of a clean, fearless journal, dedicated to the Right, with malice toward none and charity for all.
Read the following carefully and give
fair judgment:

A councilman is supposed to be a full grown man, able to read, write and reason intelligently, and to attend to business interests in a business way.
He should be an honest man, although this rule is occasionally a dead letter, superinduced by the entry of foul and unclean life in the field of politics. He should be a man who will cast aside pettishness and childishness, and let reason and manhood control him in his actions as a representative of the people.
He should be a just and honorable man,
and his promises, as a councilman and
as a leader, should be kept inviolate.

In the month of April, 1898, the city clerk's report was published in the three papers of this city, in conformity with a motion now on the city clerk's books, each paper receiving one-third of the full rate allowed by law for the publication of legal printing. All ordinances and regular city printing, mayor's proclamation, publication of polling places, etc., have been printed in the said three papers, as per agreement, until Tuesday night, April 11, 1899, when certain members of council, influenced by feelings of hate and spitefulness against the NEWS REVIEW, because it advocated clean and pure city government, entered into a side agreement with the lower region daily and the weekly Tribune to cut out the NEWS
REVIEW from a share of the city printing, in open defiance of the agreement
of council with this paper, said agreement not expiring until May 11, 1899,
as per arrangement with the city clerk,
he having been instructed by the OLD council to enter into this agreement
with Manager Palmer, who accepted
the said proposition of council, and who has acted his part to the letter in good faith and as becomes an honorable man
and true journalist.

We have it from reliable authority
that a man connected with the lower region sheet, knowing of the hostility
to this paper on the part of Stewart, Challis and Olnhausen, acted the part of a sneak and trickster, and endeavored to secure the exclusive publication of the city clerk's report, barring out the
NEWS REVIEW and the Tribune.
Jeremiah Simms in some manner caught
on to this skullduggery and made himself solid, agreeing to publish the report
at one-third of the full legal rate, but RELIGIOUSLY (?) kept the trickery of the sneaks a secret from his brother journalist of the NEWS REVIEW, who certainly would have treated him in a more fair and honorable manner had
the situation been reversed.

And on the night of Tuesday, April 11,
1899, to their shame and discredit be it said, these councilmanic sneaks carried their LITTLE, PETTY, DISHONORABLE AND UTTERLY DISCREDITABLE SCHEME INTO EFFECT. Shame upon such narrow-minded creatures, using the public money for the gratification of their petty spite and malice, robbing the NEWS REVIEW of that which they had pledged themselves to grant it, and robbing the readers of the NEWS REVIEW of the privilege of reading the clerk's report.

Can such skullduggery succeed? Will
the action of these spiteful little children
stand the test of law? Is a councilmanic obligation worth nothing? Can such a body break promises with impunity?
These are pertinent questions, and the OLD council MUST and SHALL answer them, as the matter will be brought before the next session of council, when refusal to do justice to the NEWS REVIEW will result in an appeal to the higher court at Lisbon.

Yesterday, accompanied by a witness,
Manager Palmer visited city hall and interviewed City Clerk James N. Hanley, demanding of him the copy of the city clerk's report, stating that the NEWS REVIEW stood ready to have the subject matter set up and inserted in its columns. The city clerk refused to grant the request for said copy, stating that he had been ordered by the city council to give said copy to the Tribune

and the lower region sheet,
and not to the NEWS REVIEW. He was requested to notify the president of council of the demand made by Manager
Palmer for said copy, and courteously made answer that he would gladly comply with the request.

The bill for the printing of said city clerk's report will be presented to the present council at the proper time, and if refusal is made as to payment of the same by that body, the court at Lisbon
will settle the matter.

The time has come when good Republicans can no longer afford to support that unwritten law which says "no matter what a man's character or record
is he must have a second term." Mr.
Blake asks for your support because he is a Republican and a workman. He asks you to sample his workmanship at his bench; but he hasn't dared to ask you to examine his workmanship in the state senate. If his work at the bench was as miserable as that in the senate,
he would certainly soon be without a job.
True Republicanism says: Be a true representative of the people. This is what our present senator has not been.
This is why the good people of the county are asking all good Republicans
to vote for A. H. McCoy for state senator. He too is a workman, and he dares to ask you to examine all the work of his life, as a man, as a laborer, as a soldier, as a legislator. He has been true to every trust committed to him. Do

Blake asks for your support because he is a Republican and a workingman. He asks you to sample his workmanship at
you to examine his workmanship in the state senate. If his work at the bench
was as miserable as that in the senate,
he would certainly soon be without a job.
True Republicanism says: Be a true
representative of the people. This is what our present senator has not been.
This is why the good people of the county are asking all good Republicans
to vote for A. H. McCoy for state senator. He too is a workman, and he dares
to ask you to examine all the work of his life, as a man, as a laborer, as a soldier, as a legislator. He has been true
to every trust committed to him. Do not fail to vote for him tomorrow for state senator.

AIDED BY KINDRED CHARACTERS

Connected With the Old Council, of Most Unenviable Reputation—The Action of the Expiring Members Meets With Hot Condemnation.

To clean and honest citizens of East
Liverpool, men who believe in justice
and fair play, the writer dedicates this article, satisfied that honorable men will back and support an honest man in the publication of a clean, fearless
journal, dedicated to the Right, with malice toward none and charity for all.
Read the following carefully and give
fair judgment:

A councilman is supposed to be a full grown man, able to read, write and reason intelligently, and to attend to business interests in a business way.
He should be an honest man, although
this rule is occasionally a dead letter,
superinduced by the entry of foul and unclean life in the field of politics. He should be a man who will cast aside
pettishness and childishness, and let reason and manhood control him in his actions as a representative of the people.
He should be a just and honorable man,
and his promises, as a councilman and
as a leader, should be kept inviolate.

In the month of April, 1898, the city
clerk's report was published in the three papers of this city, in conformity
with a motion now on the city clerk's books, each paper receiving one-third of
the full rate allowed by law for the publication of legal printing. All ordinances and regular city printing, mayor's proclamation, publication of polling
places, etc., have been printed in the said three papers, as per agreement, until Tuesday night, April 11, 1899, when certain members of council, influenced
by feelings of hate and spitefulness
against the News Review, because it
advocated clean and pure city government, entered into a side agreement
with the lower region daily and the weekly Tribune to cut out the News
Review from a share of the city printing, in open defiance of the agreement
of council with this paper, said agreement not expiring until May 11, 1899,
as per arrangement with the city clerk,
he having been instructed by the old
council to enter into this agreement
with Manager Palmer, who accepted
the said proposition of council, and who has acted his part to the letter in good faith and as becomes an honorable man
and true journalist.

We have it from reliable authority
that a man connected with the lower region sheet, knowing of the hostility
to this paper on the part of Stewart,
Challis and Olmhausen, acted the part of a sneak and trickster, and endeavored
to secure the exclusive publication of the city clerk's report, barring out the News Review and the Tribune.
Jeremiah Simms in some manner caught
on to this skullduggery and made himself solid, agreeing to publish the report
at one-third of the full legal rate, but RELIGIOUSLY (?) kept the trickery of the
sneaks a secret from his brother
journalist of the News Review, who certainly would have treated him in a more fair and honorable manner had
the situation been reversed.

And on the night of Tuesday, April 11,
1899, to their shame and discredit be it
said, these councilmanic sneaks carried
UTTERLY DISCREDITABLE SCHEME INTO EFFECT. Shame upon such narrow-minded creatures, using the public
money for the gratification of
their petty spite and malice, robbing the News Review of that which they had pledged themselves to grant it, and robbing the readers of the News Review of the privilege of reading the clerk's report.

Can such skullduggery succeed? Will
the action of these spiteful little children
stand the test of law? Is a councilmanic obligation worth nothing? Can such a
body break promises with impunity?

These are pertinent questions, and the old council MUST and SHALL answer
them, as the matter will be brought before the next session of council, when refusal to do justice to the News Review
will result in an appeal to the higher
court at Lisbon.

Yesterday, accompanied by a witness,
Manager Palmer visited city hall and
interviewed City Clerk James N. Hanley, demanding of him the copy of the city clerk's report, stating that the News Review stood ready to have the
columns. The city clerk refused to grant the request for said copy, stating
that he had been ordered by the city

council to give said copy to the Tribune
and the lower region sheet,
and not to the News Review. He was requested to notify the president of
council of the demand made by Manager
Palmer for said copy, and courteously
made answer that he would gladly comply with the request.

The bill for the printing of said city
clerk's report will be presented to the present council at the proper time, and if refusal is made as to payment of the same by that body, the court at Lisbon
will settle the matter.

The time has come when good Repub-

FAMOUS OLD HARTFORD

Farragut's Flagship to Show Her Teeth Again.

TO BE READY FOR SEA NEXT FALL.

Is Equipped With Up to Date Guns to Replace Her Old Smoothbores. She is a Good Cruiser and Will Be Valuable on the Pacific—The Hartford's History.

The glorious old sloop of war Hartford, from whose wooden sides thundered the broadsides of Farragut, is to be made an effective part of our navy once more. She was built at the Boston navy yard in the year 1858, and has lately been thoroughly overhauled, repaired and refitted at the navy yard, Mare Island. A modern battery has been placed on board and an additional deck added (a light spar deck), covering her main battery from the weather as well as from injury from small gun projectiles during action. The beams and stringers of this deck are steel, with steel angles and fastening connections to the wood hull, and these are covered with a substantial deck of California wood.

On this upper or spar deck, around the rail, is mounted a secondary battery of four 6 pounder and one 3 pounder rapid fire guns, two Colts and one 5 inch gun at the bow on the center line. Below this, on the gun deck, are mounted twelve 5 inch rapid fire guns. This battery of modern guns is in strong contrast to the ancient smoothbores that made the Hartford so famous under the command of the invincible Farragut in the civil war. It is also superior to any of the batteries placed on our late steel gunboats, and but for the danger that would result to her in action, due to splinters and fire, owing to her wooden hull, she would be more than a match for most of our new vessels, also those of foreign navies of near her displacement.

The vessel is sheathed with copper, and having also a large sail spread she is capable of making long voyages without being obliged to linger near coaling stations. With new boilers and the engines put in thorough repair, a speed of 12 knots on 2,000 horsepower is expected, while under sail alone, with a stiff breeze, she is expected to make a speed of nine knots at least.

At a previous session of congress money was appropriated to keep this historic vessel in repair and in active service—a most commendable provision. It is noted that foreign governments keep their celebrated naval vessels afloat and in service for generations. Nelson's flagship, the Victory, is one of these.

The dimensions, etc., of the Hartford are: Length between perpendiculars, 225 feet; breadth, 44 feet; mean draft of water, 18 feet 2 inches; capacity of coal bunkers, 286 tons; complement of officers, 32; complement of crew, 212. It is expected that the vessel will be ready for sea about Sept. 30, 1899.

The Hartford was just four years old when Admiral Farragut, commanding the western gulf blockading squadron, of which the famous sloop of war was the flagship, determined to force the passage of the forts and take New Orleans. The feat was unquestionably the most brilliant achievement in naval history, and has only recently been paralleled by Dewey's glorious victory at Manila bay. The course that Farragut's fleet had to follow to reach the forts was known to be thickly mined, and all manner of terrors were apprehended, but there was no wavering. "Hang the torpedoes!" cried Farragut. "Go ahead!" And the robust language of the old fire eater took its place among sentences historical.

Led by the Hartford, from whose sides there belched forth fire, smoke and metal in a continuous stream, the squadron passed the Confederate forts, Jackson and St. Philip, and took New Orleans on the following day. Farragut then attacked and captured the principal gulf ports of Texas, completing the glorious task he had set for himself.

The name of Farragut was henceforth to be enrolled among our leading naval heroes, and the splendid old Hartford is designed to possess the same historical importance to the American people as Nelson's flagship Victory to the British. The Victory's fighting days are over. Her old age is being passed peacefully in harbor amid no more exciting surroundings than the ordinary humdrum of commerce provides. Her sole mission now is to stir to patriotic fervor the feelings of those of the queen's subjects who climb aboard the gray old ship and meditate ecstatically on the glory of Britain as they gaze at the brass plate on which is inscribed, "Here Nelson fell." A more useful life is ahead for the Hartford. American patriots can proudly walk her decks as she plows the waves armed with guns of the newest type, a more formidable craft by far than that from which Farragut flung his famous defiance to the enemy's explosives. It should be a gala day throughout America when the Hartford turns her prow seaward once more.—Washington Post

Music Tried on Wild Beasts.

A novel experiment was recently tried at Lincoln park, when C. F. Frederick, a violin player, tested the effect of music on the different animals. The first victim was the hyena. The animal at first seemed alarmed by a wild and shrill concerto. When Schumann's "Nocturne in F" was played, however, the animal drew nearer to the bars of the cage and seemed anxious to approach the instrument. The first tunes tried on the tigers met with little effect, but when "Traumerel" was played they glowered at the violinist. The other animals were not so responsive, and one of the bears tried to wreck the violin. The monkeys joined in the music.—Chicago Tribune

FOUGHT WITH A MAD WOLF.

Chillicothe (Mo.) Athlete in the Fight of His Life.

For ten minutes the other night Gene Miller, a prominent young society man and athlete of Chillicothe, Mo., had the fight of his life with a mad wolf. He had only his hands with which to defend himself from the infuriated animal. He was in a section of town generally deserted at nightfall and confined in a narrow alley from which his frantic cries for help scarcely reached the saunterers who finally came to his rescue.

Miller lies in bed covered with bandages from head to foot and with 25 distinct wounds of the infuriated animal's teeth on his body, besides innumerable scratches from its claws. The flesh of one thigh is almost torn from the bone, and there is much doubt of Miller's recovery from the wounds, besides the added danger of possible hydrophobia. The wolf was Miller's pet, an animal of unusual size and for several months a notable curiosity of the city. Never before had it shown viciousness toward Miller. His control of the animal had always been considered remarkable, and he fondled it with thorough confidence. The animal was ordinarily kept in a cage as a precaution for the safety of others about the hardware store with which its master is connected, but when alone Miller allowed the wolf the freedom of the building, and often it has sat on its haunches beside its owner for hours when work on books or correspondence kept him down town.

When Miller went down town the other night, he found that the animal had broken out of its cage, and, upon making search, discovered it in an alley in the rear of the store. Apprehending no trouble, he approached his pet and sought to grasp it. Instantly the wolf sprang at his master, striking him full in the breast. Fortunately Miller withstood the force of the animal's jump and did not fall. Before he had fully recovered from his surprise the wolf's teeth were sunk deep into his shoulder, and then began his remarkable battle.

There was no light in the alley. Few persons ever passed that way at night. Not even a stick or stone was within reach, and he had no opportunity to grasp a weapon, even if one had been at hand. Loudly shrieking for help, he sought to escape, but the wolf clung to him with the tenacity of a leech. Twice, thrice, a half dozen times he tore the animal from its grasp, but he could not kill it with his bare hands, and he could not get by it to the one entrance to the alley. Again and again the wolf jumped on his master, each time inflicting horrible wounds, and still no footfall promised succor.

Torn and faint from pain and loss of blood, young Miller fought foot by foot to the mouth of the alley. Then, just as he fell at last before the force of another leap of the maddened animal, with senses all but gone and the wolf teeth in his flesh, he heard voices and fainted. The rescuers were close at hand, but could not reach him in time to prevent the wolf's further mutilation of his body as he lay unconscious, and they had scarce appeared in sight before they, too, were put on the defensive.

But Miller's fight had been so brave and muscular that the wolf had felt its effects. Each of the three men who came to the rescue of the unfortunate Miller exhibits wounds inflicted in the further battle with the wolf, which for a time drove them back. Returning to the still unconscious form of Miller, the wolf fastened its teeth into his thigh and was taken unawares at the time, the three rescuers, stirred by the horror of the situation to a point almost of forgetfulness, throwing themselves pell mell on to the brute. Fortunately one of the men carried a large pocketknife, and it was with this weapon that the mad animal was finally dispatched.—Special St. Louis Post-Dispatch

The Joy of Heaven.

The joy of heaven is a never ending song, a communion of all pure and blessed souls, and the most humble in the adoring multitude may look with boldness toward the throne and say, "Abba, Father!" It is a perfect home. Oh, that ours were nearer to the pattern of it. We may make them so. Where virtue and charity and contentment are met together at an altar dedicated to God's worship there life is an earnest of the heavenly life, and home is lit with the sunlight of the Father's love.—Rev. UNION LABELS.

It should be a deep-rooted principle of all union workmen and union sympathizers, and particularly those members of the different organizations of East Liverpool, to buy nothing but Union Label goods, in preference to all others. And why not? If we ask fair wages for our labor, why should we buy goods made at unfair wages by others? The Union Label in every industry is a guarantee of fair wages, decent working hours, and union labor employed.

FAMOUS OLD HARTFORD

Farragut's Flagship to Show Her Teeth Again.

TO BE READY FOR SEA NEXT FALL.

Is Equipped With Up to Date Guns to Replace Her Old Smoothbores. She is a Good Cruiser and Will Be Valuable on the Pacific—The Hartford's History.

The glorious old sloop of war Hartford, from whose wooden sides thundered the broadsides of Farragut, is to be made an effective part of our navy once more. She was built at the Boston navy yard in the year 1858, and has lately been thoroughly overhauled, repaired and refitted at the navy yard, Mare Island. A modern battery has been placed on board and an additional deck added (a light spar deck), covering her main battery from the weather as well as from injury from small gun projectiles during action. The beams and stringers of this deck are steel, with steel angles and fastening connections to the wood hull, and these are covered with a substantial deck of California wood.

On this upper or spar deck, around the rail, is mounted a secondary battery of four 6 pounder and one 3 pounder rapid fire guns, two Colts and one 5 inch gun at the bow on the center line. Below this, on the gun deck, are mounted twelve 5 inch rapid fire guns. This battery of modern guns is in strong contrast to the ancient smoothbores that made the Hartford so famous under the command of the invincible Farragut in the civil war. It is also superior to any of the batteries placed on our late steel gunboats, and but for the danger that would result to her in action, due to splinters and fire, owing to her wooden hull, she would be more than a match for most of our new vessels, also those of foreign navies of near her displacement.

The vessel is sheathed with copper, and having also a large sail spread she is capable of making long voyages without being obliged to linger near coaling stations. With new boilers and the engines put in thorough repair, a speed of 12 knots on 2,000 horsepower is expected, while under sail alone, with a stiff breeze, she is expected to make a speed of nine knots at least.

At a previous session of congress money was appropriated to keep this historic vessel in repair and in active service—a most commendable provision. It is noted that foreign governments keep their celebrated naval vessels afloat and in service for generations. Nelson's flagship, the Victory, is one of these.

The dimensions, etc., of the Hartford are: Length between perpendiculars, 225 feet; breadth, 44 feet; mean draft of water, 18 feet 2 inches; capacity of coal bunkers, 286 tons; complement of officers, 32; complement of crew, 212. It is expected that the vessel will be ready for sea about Sept. 30, 1899.

The Hartford was just four years old when Admiral Farragut, commanding the western gulf blockading squadron, of which the famous sloop of war was the flagship, determined to force the passage of the forts and take New Orleans. The feat was unquestionably the most brilliant achievement in naval history, and has only recently been paralleled by Dewey's glorious victory at Manila bay. The course that Farragut's fleet had to follow to reach the forts was known to be thickly mined, and all manner of terrors were apprehended, but there was no wavering. "Hang the torpedoes!" cried Farragut. "Go ahead!" And the robust language of the old fire eater took its place among sentences historical.

Led by the Hartford, from whose sides there belched forth fire, smoke and metal in a continuous stream, the squadron passed the Confederate forts, Jackson and St. Philip, and took New Orleans on the following day. Farragut then attacked and captured the principal gulf ports of Texas, completing the glorious task he had set for himself.

The name of Farragut was henceforth to be enrolled among our leading naval heroes, and the splendid old Hartford is designed to possess the same historical importance to the American people as Nelson's flagship Victory to the British. The Victory's fighting days are over. Her old age is being passed peacefully in harbor amid no more exciting surroundings than the ordinary humdrum of commerce provides. Her sole mission now is to stir to patriotic fervor the feelings of those of the queen's subjects who climb aboard the gray old ship and meditate ecstatically on the glory of Britain as they gaze at the brass plate on which is inscribed, "Here Nelson fell."—A more useful life is ahead for the Hartford. American patriots can proudly walk her decks as she plows the waves armed with guns of the newest type, a more formidable craft by far than that from which Farragut flung his famous defiance to the enemy's explosives. It should be a gala day throughout America when the Hartford turns her prow seaward once more.—Washington Post of music on the different animals. The first victim was the hyena. The animal at first seemed alarmed by a wild and shrill concerto. When Schumann's "Nocturne in F" was played, however, the animal drew nearer to the bars of the cage and seemed anxious to approach the instrument. The first tunes tried on the tigers met with little effect, but when "Traumerei" was played they glowered at the violinist. The other animals were not so responsive, and one of the bears tried to wreck the violin. The monkeys joined in the music.—Chicago Tribune.

FOUGHT WITH A MAD WOLF.

Chillicothe (Mo.) Athlete in the Fight of His Life.

For ten minutes the other night Gene Miller, a prominent young society man and athlete of Chillicothe, Mo., had the fight of his life with a mad wolf. He had only his hands with which to defend himself from the infuriated animal. He was in a section of town generally deserted at nightfall and confined in a narrow alley from which his frantic cries for help scarcely reached the saunterers who finally came to his rescue.

Miller lies in bed covered with bandages from head to foot and with 25 distinct wounds of the infuriated animal's teeth on his body, besides innumerable scratches from its claws. The flesh of one thigh is almost torn from the bone, and there is much doubt of Miller's recovery from the wounds, besides the added danger of possible hydrophobia. The wolf was Miller's pet, an animal of unusual size and for several months a notable curiosity of the city. Never before had it shown viciousness toward Miller. His control of the animal had always been considered remarkable, and he fondled it with thorough confidence. The animal was ordinarily kept in a cage as a precaution for the safety of others about the hardware store with which its master is connected, but when alone Miller allowed the wolf the freedom of the building, and often it has sat on its haunches beside its owner for hours when work on books or correspondence kept him down town.

When Miller went down town the other night, he found that the animal had broken out of its cage, and, upon making search, discovered it in an alley in the rear of the store. Apprehending no trouble, he approached his pet and sought to grasp it. Instantly the wolf sprang at his master, striking him full in the breast. Fortunately Miller withstood the force of the animal's jump and did not fall. Before he had fully recovered from his surprise the wolf's teeth were sunk deep into his shoulder, and then began his remarkable battle.

There was no light in the alley. Few persons ever passed that way at night. Not even a stick or stone was within reach, and he had no opportunity to grasp a weapon, even if one had been at hand. Loudly shrieking for help, he sought to escape, but the wolf clung to him with the tenacity of a leech. Twice, thrice, a half dozen times he tore the animal from its grasp, but he could not kill it with his bare hands, and he could not get by it to the one entrance to the alley. Again and again the wolf jumped on his master, each time inflicting horrible wounds, and still no foothold promised succor.

Torn and faint from pain and loss of blood, young Miller fought foot by foot to the mouth of the alley. Then, just as he fell at last before the force of another leap of the maddened animal, with senses all but gone and the wolf teeth in his flesh, he heard voices and faint. The rescuers were close at hand, but could not reach him in time to prevent the wolf's further mutilation of his body as he lay unconscious, and they had scarce appeared in sight before they, too, were put on the defensive.

But Miller's fight had been so brave and muscular that the wolf had felt its effects. Each of the three men who came to the rescue of the unfortunate Miller exhibits wounds inflicted in the further battle with the wolf, which for a time drove them back. Returning to the still unconscious form of Miller, the wolf fastened its teeth into his thigh and was taken unawares at the time, the three rescuers, stirred by the horror of the situation to a point almost of forgetfulness, throwing themselves pell mell on to the brute. Fortunately one of the men carried a large pocketknife, and it was with this weapon that the mad animal was finally dispatched.—Special St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

The Joy of Heaven. A never ending song, a communion of all pure and blessed souls, and the most humble in the adoring multitude may look with boldness toward the throne and say, "Abba, Father!" It is a perfect home. Oh, that ours were nearer to the pattern of it. We may make them so. Where virtue and charity and contentment are met together at an altar dedicated to God's worship there life is an earnest of the heavenly life, and home is lit with the sunlight of the Father's house.—Rev. D. J. Burrell, D. D.

Mr. Goschen's estimates and naval programme show that while Great Britain may be willing to disarm, it will only be after others have shown a practical disposition to take the initiative.—Pittsburg Dispatch

Farragut's Flagship to Show Her Teeth Again.

Is Equipped With Up to Date Guns to Replace Her Old Smoothbores. She is a Good Cruiser and Will Be Valuable on the Pacific—The Hartford's History.

The glorious old sloop of war Hartford, from whose wooden sides thundered the broadsides of Farragut, is to be made an effective part of our navy once more. She was built at the Boston navy yard in the year 1858, and has lately been thoroughly overhauled, repaired and refitted at the navy yard, Mare Island. A modern battery has been placed on board and an additional deck added (a light spar deck), covering her main battery from the weather as well as from injury from small gun projectiles during action. The beams and stringers of this deck are steel, with steel angles and fastening connections to the wood hull, and these are covered with a substantial deck of California wood.

On this upper or spar deck, around the rail, is mounted a secondary battery of four 6 pounder and one 3 pounder rapid fire guns, two Colts and one 5 inch gun at the bow on the center line. Below this, on the gun deck, are mounted twelve 5 inch rapid fire guns. This battery of modern guns is in strong contrast to the ancient smoothbores that made the Hartford so famous under the command of the invincible Farragut in the civil war. It is also superior to any of the batteries placed on our late steel gunboats, and but for the danger that would result to her in action, due to splinters and fire, owing to her wooden hull, she would be more than a match for most of our new vessels, also those of foreign navies of near her displacement.

The vessel is sheathed with copper, and having also a large sail spread she is capable of making long voyages without being obliged to linger near coaling stations. With new boilers and the engines put in thorough repair, a speed of 12 knots on 2,000 horsepower is expected, while under sail alone, with a stiff breeze, she is expected to make a speed of nine knots at least.

At a previous session of congress money was appropriated to keep this historic vessel in repair and in active service—a most commendable provision. It is noted that foreign governments keep their celebrated naval vessels afloat and in service for generations. Nelson's flagship, the Victory, is one of these.

The dimensions, etc., of the Hartford are: Length between perpendiculars, 225 feet; breadth, 44 feet; mean draft of water, 18 feet 2 inches; capacity of coal bunkers, 286 tons; complement of officers, 32; complement of crew, 212. It is expected that the vessel will be ready for sea about Sept. 30, 1899.

The Hartford was just four years old when Admiral Farragut, commanding the western gulf blockading squadron, of which the famous sloop of war was the flagship, determined to force the passage of the forts and take New Orleans. The feat was unquestionably the most brilliant achievement in naval history, and has only recently been paralleled by Dewey's glorious victory at Manila bay. The course that Farragut's fleet had to follow to reach the forts was known to be thickly mined, and all manner of terrors were apprehended, but there was no wavering. "Hang the torpedoes!" cried Farragut. "Go ahead!" And the robust language of the old fire eater took its place among sentences historical.

Led by the Hartford, from whose sides there belched forth fire, smoke and metal in a continuous stream, the squadron passed the Confederate forts, Jackson and St. Philip, and took New Orleans on the following day. Farragut then attacked and captured the principal gulf ports of Texas, completing the glorious task he had set for himself.

The name of Farragut was henceforth to be enrolled among our leading naval heroes, and the splendid old Hartford is designed to possess the same historical importance to the American people as Nelson's flagship Victory to the British. The Victory's fighting days are over. Her old age is being passed peacefully in harbor amid no more exciting surroundings than the ordinary humdrum of commerce provides. Her sole mission now is to stir to patriotic fervor the feelings of those of the queen's subjects who climb aboard the gray old ship and meditate ecstatically on the glory of Britain as they gaze at the brass plate on which is inscribed, "Here Nelson fell." A more useful life is ahead for the Hartford. American patriots can proudly walk her decks as she plows the waves armed with guns of the newest type, a more formidable craft by far than that from which Farragut flung his famous defiance to the enemy's explosives. It should be a gala day throughout America when the Hartford turns her prow seaward once more. —Washington Post

Music Tried on Wild Beasts.

A novel experiment was recently tried at Lincoln park, when C. F. Frederick, a violin player, tested the effect of music on the different animals. The first victim was the hyena. The animal at first seemed alarmed by a wild and shrill concerto. When Schumann's "Nocturne in F" was played, however, the animal drew nearer to the bars of the cage and seemed anxious to approach the instrument. The first tunes tried on the tigers met with little effect, but when "Traumerei" was played they glowered at the violinist. The other animals were not so responsive, and one of the bears tried to wreck the violin. The monkeys joined in the music. —Chicago Tribune

FOUGHT WITH A MAD WOLF.

Chillicothe (Mo.) Athlete in the Fight of His Life.

For ten minutes the other night Gene Miller, a prominent young society man and athlete of Chillicothe, Mo., had the fight of his life with a mad wolf. He had only his hands with which to defend himself from the infuriated animal. He was in a section of town generally deserted at nightfall and confined in a narrow alley from which his frantic cries for help scarcely reached the saunterers who finally came to his rescue.

Miller lies in bed covered with bandages from head to foot and with 25 distinct wounds of the infuriated animal's teeth on his body, besides innumerable scratches from its claws. The flesh of one thigh is almost torn from the bone, and there is much doubt of Miller's recovery from the wounds, besides the added danger of possible hydrophobia. The wolf was Miller's pet, an animal of unusual size and for several months a notable curiosity of the city. Never before had it shown viciousness toward Miller. His control of the animal had always been considered remarkable, and he fondled it with thorough confidence. The animal was ordinarily kept in a cage as a precaution for the safety of others about the hardware store with which its master is connected, but when alone Miller allowed the wolf the freedom of the building, and often it has sat on its haunches beside its owner for hours when work on books or correspondence kept him down town.

When Miller went down town the other night, he found that the animal had broken out of its cage, and, upon making search, discovered it in an alley in the rear of the store. Apprehending no trouble, he approached his pet and sought to grasp it. Instantly the wolf sprang at his master, striking him full in the breast. Fortunately Miller withstood the force of the animal's jump and did not fall. Before he had fully recovered from his surprise the wolf's teeth were sunk deep into his shoulder, and then began his remarkable battle.

There was no light in the alley. Few persons ever passed that way at night. Not even a stick or stone was within reach, and he had no opportunity to grasp a weapon, even if one had been at hand. Loudly shrieking for help, he sought to escape, but the wolf clung to him with the tenacity of a leech. Twice, thrice, a half dozen times he tore the animal from its grasp, but he could not kill it with his bare hands, and he could not get by it to the one entrance to the alley. Again and again the wolf jumped on his master, each time inflicting horrible wounds, and still no foothold promised succor.

Torn and faint from pain and loss of blood, young Miller fought foot by foot to the mouth of the alley. Then, just as he fell at last before the force of another leap of the maddened animal, with senses all but gone and the wolf teeth in his flesh, he heard voices and fainted. The rescuers were close at hand, but could not reach him in time to prevent the wolf's further mutilation of his body as he lay unconscious, and they had scarce appeared in sight before they, too, were put on the defensive.

But Miller's fight had been so brave and muscular that the wolf had felt its effects. Each of the three men who came to the rescue of the unfortunate Miller exhibits wounds inflicted in the further battle with the wolf, which for a time drove them back. Returning to the still unconscious form of Miller, the wolf fastened its teeth into his thigh and was taken unawares at the time, the three rescuers, stirred by the horror of the situation to a point almost of forgetfulness, throwing themselves pell mell on to the brute. Fortunately one of the men carried a large pocketknife, and it was with this weapon that the mad animal was finally dispatched. —Special St. Louis Post-Dispatch

The Joy of Heaven.

The joy of heaven is a never ending song, a communion of all pure and blessed souls, and the most humble in the adoring multitude may look with boldness toward the throne and say, "Abba, Father!" It is a perfect home. Oh, that ours were nearer to the pattern of it. We may make them so. Where virtue and charity and contentment are met together at an altar dedicated to God's worship there life is an earnest of the heavenly life, and home is lit with the sunlight of the Father's house. —Rev. D. J. Burrell, D. D.

Mr. Coschen's estimates and naval programme show that while Great Britain may be willing to disarm, it will only be after others have shown a practical disposition to take the initiative. —Pittsburg Dispatch

RETURNS WILL BE LATE

Polls Do Not Close Tomorrow Until Eight.

VOTING IS TO BEGIN AT TWO

If a Heavy Vote Is Polled In This Place the Result Will Not Be Known Until Far Into the Night—Poll Books and Tickets Being Given Out Today.

That part of East Liverpool's population that will be interested in knowing the result of the Republican primary election tomorrow night, will not go to bed until a late hour for the polls in this city will not close until 8 o'clock.

The announcement was made yesterday on the order of the central committee that the polls would open at 1 o'clock in the afternoon and close at 7, city time. Later it was discovered that the rules adopted by the county committee provided that the election should be conducted between those hours, legal time. As that makes a difference in this place it can be readily understood that the polls will open at 2 o'clock and close at 8 o'clock as time is recorded. It will be the same throughout the county.

All the poll books and tickets for the election are here, and were being given out today by Geo. H. Owen, city chairman, and all preparations for the contest are complete. The contestants for the various places are working hard, and it is expected that a large vote will be polled since interest in the various contests to say the least is pronounced.

NOVEL DREDGING.

How a Diamond Was Recovered With a Clamshell Bucket.

Dredging has been successfully resorted to in recovering a valuable diamond ring that was lost in Petaluma creek, California. Recently the owner of the ring was standing on a bridge just below Petaluma, Cal., across an arm of the creek, when his diamond ring slipped from his finger and fell through a crack in the bridge and into about eight feet of water. The stone in the ring cost, without the mounting, $800.

The owner hated to give it up, yet he did not know how to go to work to get it out. In his perplexity he applied to Captain John Hackett, a man of experience in dredging, though on a somewhat larger scale than hunting for so small a thing as a ring. The loser of the ring had been thoughtful enough to mark the place in the bridge where the ring fell through. Hackett rigged a small clamshell bucket, to be operated by hand. With a rope this was dropped through the bridge at the place marked, and a bucket of mud was brought from the bottom of the bayou. It was taken to the bank and washed out. A second and then a third was tried, and in the third was found the ring.—Stockton (Cal.) Independent.

Bigelow, chemist of the agricultural department, told the Wade court of inquiry that the canned corned beef was a wholesome and nutritious product—even more nutritious than fresh beef because of the preponderance of proteids. He also gave the details of his general investigation into the canned beef supply, showing the meat to be a generally satisfactory ration.

Prof. Mallet, professor of chemistry at the University of Virginia, presented a contrary view. He expressed the opinion that a chemical analysis was not a sufficient test of the character of a food product, saying that various conditions necessarily must be considered. He did not regard the canned roast beef as desirable ration.

Rudolph K. Spicer, an undertaker of Harrisburg, said he had discovered crystalline salts on the refrigerator beef in Porto Rico, which reminded him of powders used in embalming.

Question That May Cause Trouble In Settling an Estate.

CLEVELAND, April 14.—Concerning the will of the late Wallace C. Andrews of New York, for the establishment and maintenance of a school for girls at Wiloughby, O., Judge John C. Hutchins, postmaster of Cleveland and a cousin of Mr. Andrews, said:

"I sincerely hope that Mr. Andrews' wishes will be carried out, and if they are the school will be a finely endowed institution, because I believe his estate will be found to be worth about $4,000,000. As I understand the will, his entire estate was to go to his wife, and after her death is disposed of as directed. Both perished in the fire. Which died first? It will not surprise me if this causes trouble."

STATESMEN HONORED FIELD.

Prominent Americans and Foreigners Attended the Funeral Services.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Impressive funeral services were held over the remains of the late Justice Stephen J. Field at the Church of the Epiphany. Among those present were President McKinley, Secretaries Wilson, Long and Attorney General Griggs, the British, Russian, French and German ambassadors, the Chinese minister and the diplomatic representatives of other foreign countries and others.

Rev. Satterlee, the bishop of Washington, assisted by Rev. Mackin Smith, the pastor of the late justice, officiated. The simple burial service of the Episcopal church was read and the choir sang "Lead, Kindly Light," "Rock of Ages" and "Nearer, My God, to Thee." Chief Justice Fuller and his associates on the supreme bench acted as honorary pallbearers. The remains were interred in a vault at Rock Creek cemetery, where they will remain temporarily until Mrs. Field decides where they are to be permanently buried.

Wheeling Street Car Strike.

WHEELING, April 14.—Marshal Thompson decided to go to Parkersburg today and lay the street car situation before United States Judge Jackson, who issued the recent injunction. He said it was likely power would be given to swear in additional deputies, giving him a force sufficient to control the situation. The marshal said he could have made 50 arrests, but he did not want to go to that extent until nothing else would avail. He instructed his chief deputy, Randolph, that in the event of further obstruction of the company's cars he should arrest every obstructionist he could reach. When the company's board of directors meets tomorrow a petition from the business people probably will be presented, imploring a settlement.

Baird Very Low; Hobart Better.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Vice President Hobart was reported to be improving, though he had not yet sufficiently recovered to leave his room. His physicians said that he was better last night than he had been at any time during his illness. Representative Baird of Louisiana showed no material change, and his death was hourly expected.

Cuban Army Rolls Turned Over.

HAVANA, April 14.—The original rolls of the Cuban army were delivered to Governor General Brooke last evening. Senor Domingo Mendez Capite, vice president of the recently dissolved military assembly and long prominent in Cuban affairs, volunteered to attempt to obtain them from the special executive committee that survived the assembly. The rolls were delivered to him on his first request.

RETURNS WILL BE LATE

VOTING IS TO BEGIN AT TWO

That part of East Liverpool's population that will be interested in knowing the result of the Republican primary election tomorrow night, will not go to bed until a late hour for the polls in this city will not close until 8 o'clock. The announcement was made yesterday on the order of the central committee that the polls would open at 1 o'clock in the afternoon and close at 7, city time. Later it was discovered that the rules adopted by the county committee provided that the election should be conducted between those hours, legal time. As that makes a difference in this place it can be readily understood that the polls will open at 2 o'clock and close at 8 o'clock as time is recorded. It will be the same throughout the county. All the poll books and tickets for the election are here, and were being given out today by Geo. H. Owen, city chairman, and all preparations for the contest are complete. The contestants for the various places are working hard, and it is expected that a large vote will be polled since interest in the various contests to say the least is pronounced.

J. E. McDonald is the true friend of the workingman and mechanic. Don't you believe anything to the contrary, no matter who makes the assertion. McDonald's record will stand the test of close investigation in this particular. Vote for him for Sheriff. He will do his duty, but will not persecute or needlessly oppress any man.

NOVEL DREDGING.

How a Diamond Was Recovered With a Clamshell Bucket.

Dredging has been successfully resorted to in recovering a valuable diamond ring that was lost in Petaluma creek, California. Recently the owner of the ring was standing on a bridge just below Petaluma, Cal., across an arm of the creek, when his diamond ring slipped from his finger and fell through a crack in the bridge and into about eight feet of water. The stone in the ring cost, without the mounting, $800.

The owner hated to give it up, yet he did not know how to go to work to get it out. In his perplexity he applied to Captain John Hackett, a man of experience in dredging, though on a somewhat larger scale than hunting for so small a thing as a ring. The loser of the ring had been thoughtful enough to mark the place in the bridge where the ring fell through. Hackett rigged a small clamshell bucket, to be operated by hand. With a rope this was dropped through the bridge at the place marked, and a bucket of mud was brought from the bottom of the bayou. It was taken to the bank and washed out. A second and then a third was tried, and in the third was found the ring.--Stockton (Cal.) Independent.

Members of the Church of God to Settle Near Jerusalem.

Leroy Dickinson of St. Louis, Gratiot county, Mich., has organized a party of ten which will start early in May for the Holy Land. In the party will be Leroy Dickinson, his mother and two brothers, also James Nichols, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Harrison and Mr. and Mrs. James Emory.

The colony will have enough money from the sale of their St. Louis property to purchase about 200 acres of land in the vicinity of Jerusalem, and expect to make it their future home.

They are members of the Church of God, and it is their belief that the people of God will be gathered together prior to the coming of Christ and that Jerusalem will be the gathering place. They want to be on the spot in time it is the intention of the party to engage in missionary work and to devote most of their time to religious services.--Chicago Times-Herald

VOTING IS TO BEGIN AT TWO

That part of East Liverpool's population that will be interested in knowing the result of the Republican primary election tomorrow night, will not go to bed until a late hour for the polls in this city will not close until 8 o'clock.

The announcement was made yesterday on the order of the central committee that the polls would open at 1 o'clock in the afternoon and close at 7, city time. Later it was discovered that the rules adopted by the county committee provided that the election should be conducted between those hours, legal time. As that makes a difference in this place it can be readily understood that the polls will open at 2 o'clock and close at 8 o'clock as time is recorded. It will be the same throughout the county. All the poll books and tickets for the election are here, and were being given out today by Geo. H. Owen, city chairman, and all preparations for the contest are complete. The contestants for the various places are working hard, and it is expected that a large vote will be polled since interest in the various contests to say the least is pronounced.

J. E. McDonald is the true friend of the workingman and mechanic. Don't you believe anything to the contrary, no matter who makes the assertion. McDonald's record will stand the test of close investigation in this particular. Vote for him for Sheriff. He will do his duty, but will not persecute or needlessly oppress any man.

NOVEL DREDGING.

How a Diamond Was Recovered With a Clamshell Bucket.

Dredging has been successfully resorted to in recovering a valuable diamond ring that was lost in Petaluma creek, California. Recently the owner of the ring was standing on a bridge just below Petaluma, Cal., across an arm of the creek, when his diamond ring slipped from his finger and fell through a crack in the bridge and into about eight feet of water. The stone in the ring cost, without the mounting, $800.

The owner hated to give it up, yet he did not know how to go to work to get it out. In his perplexity he applied to Captain John Hackett, a man of experience in dredging, though on a somewhat larger scale than hunting for so small a thing as a ring. The loser of the ring had been thoughtful enough to mark the place in the bridge where the ring fell through. Hackett rigged a small clamshell bucket, to be operated by hand. With a rope this was dropped through the bridge at the place marked, and a bucket of mud was brought from the bottom of the bayon. It was taken to the bank and washed out. A second and then a third was tried, and in the third was found the ring.—Stockton (Cal.) Independent.

WILL GO TO PALESTINE.

Members of the Church of God to Settle Near Jerusalem.

Leroy Dickinson of St. Louis, Gratiot county, Mich., has organized a party of ten which will start early in May for the Holy Land. In the party will be Leroy Dickinson, his mother and two brothers, also James Nichols, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Harrison and Mr. and Mrs. James Emory.

The colony will have enough money from the sale of their St. Louis property to purchase about 200 acres of land in the vicinity of Jerusalem, and expect to make it their future home.

They are members of the Church of God, and it is their belief that the people of God will be gathered together prior to the coming of Christ, and that Jerusalem will be the gathering place. They want to be on the spot in time it is the intention of the party to engage in missionary work and to devote most of their time to religious services.—Chicago Times-Herald

He Is No Longer a Part of the Minneapolis Team.

Press dispatches this morning say: "Carey will play third base for Washington for a time at least. Manager Irwin has decided that Mercer will be more valuable to the team as a pitcher." "George Carey has been cast adrift by the Minneapolis club. Carey is one of the best fielding first basemen in the country but is a weak hitter," says a dispatch.

The many friends of Carey will learn with regret of his release, but there is no doubt he will secure an engagement before the season opens.

FOUND BEEF EMBALMED.

Harrisburg Undertaker Told of What He Discovered on Refrigerated Beef In Porto Rico.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Dr. W. D. Bigelow, chemist of the agricultural department, told the Wade court of inquiry that the canned corned beef was a wholesome and nutritious product—even more nutritious than fresh beef because of the preponderance of proteids. He also gave the details of his general investigation into the canned beef supply, showing the meat to be a generally satisfactory ration.

Prof. Mallet, professor of chemistry at the University of Virginia, presented a contrary view. He expressed the opinion that a chemical analysis was not a sufficient test of the character of a food product, saying that various conditions necessarily must be considered. He did not regard the canned roast beef as desirable ration.

Rudolph K. Spicer, an undertaker of Harrisburg, said he had discovered crystalline salts on the refrigerator beef in Porto Rico, which reminded him of powders used in embalming.

IN DOUBT WHICH DIED FIRST.

Question That May Cause Trouble In Settling an Estate.

CLEVELAND, April 14.—Concerning the will of the late Wallace C. Andrews of New York, for the establishment and maintenance of a school for girls at Willsborough, O., Judge John C. Hutchins, postmaster of Cleveland and a cousin of Mr. Andrews, said:

"I sincerely hope that Mr. Andrews' wishes will be carried out, and if they are the school will be a finely endowed institution, because I believe his estate will be found to be worth about $1,000,000. As I understand the will, his entire estate was to go to his wife, and after her death is disposed of as directed. Both perished in the fire. Which died first? It will not surprise me if this causes trouble."

STATESMEN HONORED FIELD.

Prominent Americans and Foreigners Attended the Funeral Services.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Impressive funeral services were held over the remains of the late Justice Stephen J. Field at the Church of the Epiphany. Among those present were President McKinley, Secretaries Wilson, Long and Attorney General Griggs, the British, Russian, French and German ambassadors, the Chinese minister and the diplomatic representatives of other foreign countries and others.

Rev. Satterlee, the bishop of Washington, assisted by Rev. Mackin Smith, the pastor of the late justice, officiated. The simple burial service of the Episcopal church was read and the choir sang "Lead, Kindly Light," "Rock of Ages" and "Nearer, My God, to Thee." Chief Justice Fuller and his associates on the supreme bench acted as honorary pallbearers. The remains were interred in a vault at Rock Creek cemetery, where they will remain temporarily until Mrs. Field decides where they are to be permanently buried.

ELEVEN STEAMERS IN PERIL.

Were Lying In the Ice In the Yukon River.

SEATTLE, Wash., April 14.—According to reports received here 11 steamers of the Yukon river fleet between Russian mission and Dawson are in a critical condition. They were lying in the middle of the stream. When the ice goes out they are liable to be carried down and wrecked on sand bars. The following is a list of the vessels and locations:

Herman, above Nulats. Dawson City, four miles above St. James mission. Governor Stoneman, 25 miles above the mouth of the Tanana river. May D, 25 miles below Rampart. Chetco, at Rampart. City of Chicago, at Rampart. Robert Kerr, 40 miles below Circle City. Seattle No. 1, 12 miles below Circle City. Tacoma, 50 miles above Circle City. Arnold, 70 miles above Circle City.

A LETTER FROM DEWEY.

Sent a Present For a Fayette County (Pa.) Baby Namesake.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., April 14.—The following letter was received by Thomas S. Woods of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad:

"FLAGSHIP OLYMPIA, 'MANILA BAY, March 11, Mr. Thomas S. Woods, Uniontown, Pa.: 'DEAR SIR—I am just in receipt of your letter of Jan. 23, announcing the birth of a boy and informing me that he had been named George Dewey Woods. I greatly appreciate the honor thus accorded me and thank you most heartily for the honor. Your letter reached me enclosed in a note from your son, John W. Woods, who explained that he wished to deliver personally your letter, but that the presence of his regiment on the firing line prevented. With my best wishes for the future welfare of George Dewey Woods, I am, yours truly, GEORGE DEWEY."

President's Portrait Being Painted.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The president gave Mr. Charles Ayre Whipple of New York a sitting for a full length portrait of himself. The portrait is being painted in the private apartments of the White House. Mr. Whipple painted the portraits of ex-President Harrison, General Miles and Secretaries Sherman, Herbert, Tracy and Elkins.

English Painter Died.

LONDON, April 14.—F. Sargent, the English historical painter, died.

Wheeling Street Car Strike.

WHEELING, April 14.—Marshal Thompson decided to go to Parkersburg today and lay the street car situation before United States Judge Jackson, who issued the recent injunction. He said it was likely power would be given to swear in additional deputies, giving him a force sufficient to control the situation. The marshal said he could have made 50 arrests, but he did not want to go to that extent until nothing else would avail. He instructed his chief deputy, Randolph, that in the event of further obstruction of the company's cars he should arrest every obstructionist he could reach. When the company's board of directors meets tomorrow a petition from the business people probably will be presented, imploring a settlement.

Baird Very Low; Hobart Better.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Vice President Hobart was reported to be improving, though he had not yet sufficiently recovered to leave his room. His physicians said that he was better last night than he had been at any time during his illness. Representative Baird of Louisiana showed no material change, and his death was hourly expected.

Cuban Army Rolls Turned Over.

HAVANA, April 14.—The original rolls of the Cuban army were delivered to Governor General Brooke last evening. Senor Domingo Mendez Capite, vice president of the recently dissolved military assembly and long prominent in Cuban affairs, volunteered to attempt to obtain them from the special executive committee that survived the assembly. The rolls were delivered to him on his first request.

Tried to Ignite Death Watch.

LANCASTER, Pa., April 14.—Ralph Wireback, who has been sentenced to be hanged on May 17 for the murder of D. B. Landis, attempted to set on fire his death watch, Jacob Shenk, but but failed.

Charged With Conspiracy.

NEW YORK, April 14.—A. S. Colyar, Jr., was arraigned in court on a charge of conspiracy to procure the arrest, to kidnap and confine Nicholas A. Heckman. The examination was set for today. Colyar's bail was placed at $2,500.

COLONEL BAINE

Talked of the New Woman and the Old Man.

Colonel Baine last night at the Grand Opera House lectured from the subject, "The New Woman and the Old Man," instead of "Among the Masses," as had been announced.

The colonel seldom changes, and his lecture was characteristic. He supported higher education for women, and deplored the use of money for tobacco and whisky in men. He touched upon the pleasant relations between North and South and England and America, and his sentiments were repeatedly applauded.

EVENING NEWS REVIEW.

14TH YEAR. NO. 261.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., FRIDAY, APRIL 14, 1899.

TWO CENTS

PLANS FOR MURDER.

Mrs. George Discussed Them With a Lawyer.

TOLD HIM OF ALLEGED WRONGS.

She Would Not Get More Than Ten Years in Prison She Said She Would Kill Him—Another Witness Said She Heard Threats.

CANTON, O., April 14.—The feature of the proceedings in the trial of Mrs. George was the testimony of Attorney W. O. Wertz, who had represented her in a number of civil actions prior to the killing of Saxton. He sought to evade testifying on the grounds that what he knew had been told him by Mrs. George and was a private communication between counsel and client. However, the court decided to admit the testimony.

Wertz also told of a series of threats and plans for their execution on the part of Mrs. George against the life of Saxton, and the defense brought the remainder of the conversation out which proved to be three recitals of Mrs. George's version of her relation with Saxton and the wrongs she claims to have suffered at his hands.

After a decision from the judge the attorney said, in answer to the state's question:

"We talked about the Althouse case. She said she was going out to the Althouse residence to raise hell with Saxton. She said she had a 38-caliber revolver in her trunk. She had bought it in Chicago. She did not say what she was going to do with it."

"I had another conversation with her in my office the afternoon of that day. She said: 'When the suit for damages for alienating affections brought against Saxton by Sample C. George is settled there will be a funeral or a wedding.' She asked what effect it would have on the suit if she killed Saxton. I told her the result might be the same, but if she was going to kill him she had better wait until the case was settled. She said if she shot him she would make a good job of it; would give him all the balls she had."

"She asked if it would be a good plan to have two revolvers, throw one at his feet and shoot him with the other. I told her in view of the threats she had made against Saxton, no one would believe she had killed him in self-defense. She asked me how it would do to shoot him in the back and throw the revolver away."

In cross-examination, witness said Mrs. George had told him that Saxton had promised to marry her as soon as she got a divorce from her husband, and that he had persuaded her to get a divorce, furnishing money with which she went to Dakota to get the divorce; that after this he abandoned her, persecuted her, and had her arrested; that she was left without a home; that she had separated from a husband whom she loved until Saxton alienated her affections. She also said that Saxton had pursued her for several years before she yielded to his advances; that he had given her presents which she at first refused, but he had finally accomplished her ruin and left her without means of support to herself and children. During these conversations Mrs. George was excited and sometimes in tears, the witness said.

In re-direct examination he told of another conversation in which Mrs. George asked what the penalty would be if she killed Saxton, and said she would do it if there was nothing worse than ten years in penitentiary. She said she had suffered everything but death at Saxton's hands.

Mrs. Mary Finley is the woman with whom Mrs. George roomed for a period of over two years, and was introduced by the state principally to detail certain threats which she had heard Mrs. George make against Saxton.

The first of these threats related was said to have been made in October, 1897, when witness said Mrs. George told her: "Just wait till the case of Sample C. George and Saxton is settled. I'll see to Saxton. I am going to ask Mayor Rice to go with me to Saxton's office. I am going to ask him what he will do for me, and if he does nothing, I'll shoot Saxton so full of lead that he will stand still."

Witness said she told Mrs. George: "You will go to the penitentiary."

Mrs. George replied: "Only for a few years. What's that?"

Early in 1898 witness credited another threat to Mrs. George, in which she said: "I wish I could see Harry Clark; I want him to buy me a revolver."

She further said that if Clark would not get her a revolver she would go to Mayor Rice and get one; he had lots of them, taken from people arrested. She would make him give her a good one, she said. She would not have anything but a self-acting one. Still another threat was detailed by the witness, in which, among other things, Mrs. George said:

"I'll fix him; I'll not do it like a coward. I'll go up in front of him, and let him know who did it."

One or two other threats were detailed in similar terms, and also a visit of Mrs. George to the Althouse residence, where she prevented Saxton from entering the house and clung to him as he went away.

and followed him a long distance as he was seeking to get away from her to the door of the Saxton block, where she left him, because of the injunction restraining her. Mrs. Finley's testimony was given clear and concise, but the vehemence of Mr. Wertz's cross-examination seemed to disconcert her.

GRADY REPLIED TO FLINN.

Said He Would Call a Caucus—Latter Said He Wanted the Dead-lock Broken.

HARRISBURG, April 14.—Senator Grady handed Senator Flinn a reply to his letter suggesting a conference between committees of the two factions to discuss the contest for United States senator, saying in part:

"The joint caucus held in January last, which has now passed into the domain of legislative history, did not, as chairman, clothe me with authority to appoint a conference committee, but as the proposition submitted by you may have an important bearing upon the matter it should be brought to the attention of those now voting for the caucus nominee of the Republican party, so I feel it my duty to at once issue a call for a meeting to be held on Monday evening next."

Senator Grady issued a call for a conference of the Republican senators and members voting for Mr. Quay in the supreme court chamber on Monday evening.

The anti-Quay Republicans voted for Alvin Markle, the Hazleton coal operator and banker, at the joint ballot for United States senator.

A meeting of the anti-Quay Republicans was held, at which it was decided to send a communication to Senator John C. Grady of Philadelphia, chairman of the Republican caucus that nominated Senator Quay, suggesting a conference, "with a view of adjusting factional differences and the election of a senator. An early reply will oblige."

Resolutions of thanks to Van Valkenburg were adopted.

There will be but five more ballots for senator, including today, according to parliamentary authorities, who hold that no vote can be taken on the last day, next Thursday, as the sine die adjournment is fixed for the same hour as the ballot—12 o'clock. There are some who hold that a ballot is required by law every day when the legislature is in session, but they are in a minority.

The ballot Thursday resulted: Quay, 94; Jenks, 74; Markle, 53; total vote, 221; necessary to a choice, 111; paired or not voting, 32; no election.

TO SAIL FOR SAMOA.

Commission Expected to Go on a U. S. Naval Transport—Sternburg to Represent Germany.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The Samoan commission will sail probably for Apia on the United States naval transport Badger, leaving San Francisco on the 25th inst. This arrangement was made after Baron Speck von Sternburg, first secretary of the German embassy, had called on Secretary Hay and advised him of his appointment as the German member of the high commission. This completed the body. As the plan to have the members get away on the Mariposa, sailing on the 19th, was no longer feasible, the transport Badger, now at Callao, Peru, on her way to San Francisco, was placed at the disposal of the commission. She is a large, serviceable ship, with first-class accommodations for the commissioners. On her trip out she probably will take supplies for the Philadelphia.

The formal announcement of Baron Sternburg's appointment was received from the German foreign office, and gave general satisfaction among officials and diplomats, as throughout the recent troubles he exerted his influence in such manner as to win the hearty approval of the state department as well as the British ambassador. His choice, therefore, was accepted as an evidence that the commissioners would be able to co-operate and to reach the unanimous decision called for by the agreement. The early sailing of the commission was regarded as evidence that the recent collision at Apia will be settled diplomatically.

To Dissolve a Fuel Company.

COLUMBUS, April 14.—Steps were taken here which will result in the formal dissolution of the Central Ohio Fuel company on May 1. The reasons for the dissolution are said to be the change of scale and the new basis of wages for the ensuing year. The pool controlled the output of the Sunday Creek valley.

John A. Barnes Married.

CLEVELAND, April 14.—John A. Barnes, the former husband of the wife of Frank A. Magowan, former mayor of Trenton, was secretly married to Miss Anna Minch of this city. The wedding occurred at Warren, O., whither the couple went without letting their friends into the secret. They are at home in Glenville, a suburb of Cleveland.

General Wheeler Wants to Fight.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Gen. Joseph Wheeler made a call at the White House. He said he desired active service in the Philippines, and if not assigned to active duty, will resign. He expects to resign before the Fifty-sixth congress meets, to take his seat in the house of representative.

FILIPINOS FRIENDLY.

Schurman Said the Proclamation Had Done Good.

VISITING THE COMMISSIONERS.

Natives Called and Expressed Satisfaction and a Desire to Become Citizens of the United States—Aguinaldo Tyrannical—Outpost Attacked by Rebels.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—President McKinley received a dispatch from Dr. Schurman, president of the Philippine commission, now at Manila, the message saying that the proclamation recently issued had done great good, and that Filipinos are visiting the commissioners every day to express their satisfaction and their desire to become citizens of this country. The message also stated that Filipinos coming into Manila declare that Aguinaldo's government is tyrannical, and that many natives are deserting from his standard each day.

MANILA, April 14.—At about 4 o'clock Thursday morning a small body of rebels attacked the camp of the Third artillery from the swamp near Paombon, a mile and a half west of Malolos. Two privates were killed and a lieutenant and two others were wounded.

With the coming of daylight the American forces scoured the district, driving the rebels northward and killing several of them. A private soldier of the Montana regiment was wounded.

Francisco Reyes, the man who recently purchased the Spanish gunboats at Zamboanga, island of Mindanao, received advices to the effect that the fleet sailed for Manila and returned a few days later with the vessels stripped of their arms and ammunition. The purchaser's agent and native crews for the vessels, on board the American steamer Butuan, were conveyed to Zamboanga by the United States cruiser Boston and were instructed to wait for the arrival there of the United States gunboat Petrel.

Instead of so doing, after the Boston sailed from Zamboanga the Spaniards transferred the gunboats to the agents of Senor Reyes and the fleet left Zamboanga unescorted. They soon returned and reported having been boarded by rebels, who removed the gunboats' armaments. If the instructions of the American naval commander had been obeyed their capture would have been impossible.

Zamboanga was fortified and was yet garrisoned by Spaniards and the affair was regarded as suspicious.

For Sheriff,

J. E. McDONALD.

Why?

Because he is eminently fitted for the position.

Because he has been and is an earnest worker for East Liverpool.

Because he is your home candidate, and works for your interests.

Read his warm approval by union men.

Read What Secretary P. J. McKeone Says of J. E. McDonald.

The statement having been made that the Brotherhood of Operative potters had endorsed a candidate, P. J. McKeone, secretary of the Brotherhood, was interviewed today. He said:

"The Brotherhood has not endorsed any candidate and there is no truth in the statement. Mr. J. E. McDonald has always been recognized as a friend by the workmen and he should get their support. It is the aim of unions to stay out of politics and no union has endorsed a candidate. Mr. McDonald is known by us to be a friend of union men and they will stand by their home candidate, I think a song I heard once very aptly applies in this case. It is 'Charity Begins at Home,' and the workmen will remember it tomorrow."

—Miss Jennie McGovern, who has been spending several days in Akron, has returned to the city.

CHICAGO PLATFORM STANDS.

Bryan Said There Would Be No Backward Step—New Issues That Democracy Will Meet.

MILWAUKEE, April 14.—The Jefferson club of Milwaukee observed the natal day of the founder of Democracy by a banquet at the Plankinton House attended by over 400 guests. Colonel William J. Bryan of Nebraska was the guest of honor and delivered the principal address. He spoke on Democracy.

In opening, he said: "We are now near enough to the next campaign to be able to form some idea of the lines along which the contest will be fought, and I am taking no risk when I say that those who in 1896 gave their allegiance to the Chicago platform are as united today in the determination that no step taken in 1896 shall be retraced."

Some people, he said, advised that the money issue be abandoned, because of the defeat in 1896. If the attitude of the party was right then, it was right now. Said he in part:

"In 1888 Mr. Cleveland was defeated on the tariff issue, and yet the tariff was made the main issue in 1892 and Mr. Cleveland was elected. In 1892 Mr. Harrison was defeated largely on account of the McKinley bill, and four years later the author of the bill was nominated upon a platform reaffirming the belief in protection and was successful."

Further along he said in part: "The attempt of the Republican party to retire the greenbacks and substitute for them national bank notes will give to that question a greater prominence than it enjoyed in 1896."

"If the value of the bank note is dependent upon the government, how can it be any better than the government's own paper and why should the government pay national banks a bonus to induce them to issue bank notes which are in no respects superior and in some respects inferior to the greenbacks issued by the government and for which the people pay no bonus?"

In referring to the trusts he said in part:

"The milk trust reaches the infant as he enters the world, the ice trust cools him in the summer, the coal trust keeps him warm in the winter, while the coffin trust waits to receive him when life's fitful dream is over. The people are beginning to see what the principle of monopoly really means, and yet the principle of monopoly, so plainly illustrated by the industrial trusts, does not differ at all from the principle of monopoly which underlies both the gold standard and the paper money trusts."

He then opposed the increase in the standing army and imperialism, pointing out that there was much similarity in the promises made in the proclamation made to the people of India by the queen in 1859 and in the recent proclamation of the United States commission to the Filipinos. Said he:

CATHOLIC EDUCATORS ORGANIZED.

Committee on Organization to Arrange For Future Conferences.

CHICAGO, April 14.—At the meeting of Catholic educators the committee on organization made a preliminary report outlining plans. The new organization was christened the Association of Catholic Colleges of the United States. The body will meet next year and decide later whether the sessions will be held annually or every two years.

The committee on organization was made a standing committee to arrange for future conferences and pass upon educational matters referred to it.

On the River.

The marks at the wharf this morning were the same as yesterday, but more rain is expected and a rise will be the result.

The Greenwood will be down tonight and the Queen City went up with a good trip. The Ben Hur went south last night with a freight trip. The Lorena will go south tomorrow evening.

Changes at the Office.

A number of changes are being made on the postoffice room. The electric wires are being put under the plaster, and after this is done the room will be papered and painted. The work is being done at the expense of the owners of the building.

Accepted an Invitation.

The Junior Mechanics at their meeting last evening accepted an invitation to attend a literary and social to be given by the Chester council next Tuesday evening.

Moved Loafers.

Last evening the police dispersed the loafers who were standing on uptown corners. In one instance one of the loafers had to be threatened with arrest before he would move.

RED BOOK FIGURED.

BANK MINUTE BOOK ADMITTED.

PHILADELPHIA, April 14.—Proceedings in the trial of ex-Senator Quay were tedious, but nevertheless interesting in their bearing upon the future of the case. District Attorney Rothermel placed upon the stand in succession the paying teller, receiving teller and bookkeepers of the broken People's bank to prove the books. All of these, in answer to questions, made reference to Senator Quay's account and the bookkeepers said they had entered the figures, but none of the books were opened to show what the nature of the account was. This will be done later. All of the bank employes on cross-examination stated that they had never seen Senator Quay's deposit book and they did not believe there was one. It had been hinted that the defense would claim that Senator Quay's account in the ledger was fictitious as far as he was concerned and that the senator's name was used by Hopkins as a cloak for his own personal transactions. The cross-examination would seem to bear out this theory.

The "red book" was a big feature of the day's proceedings, figuring indirectly in the testimony of several witnesses. Its pages were gone over repeatedly and the question of its identification with the business of the bank was discussed, and when court adjourned a handwriting expert was on the stand identifying the writing in it as the work of Hopkins. All of this was accomplished by the district attorney in spite of the protests of the three acute, aggressive lawyers employed by Senator Quay, who fought in vain against the web of circumstantial evidence, involving the "red book" to such an extent that it seems almost certain that this necessary piece of evidence will have to be admitted after all.

It was evident from the district attorney's attitude that he proposes to formally offer the book in evidence in a day or two, and he appears confident of his ability to introduce the testimony which its pages contain and which is so vital in the establishment of the charge of conspiracy between Quay, Hrywood and Hopkins to use the money of the state for illicit gain. As the latter two are dead, only Senator Quay remains to face the charge.

The most interesting witness of the day was Clay Kemble, son of William H. Kemble, deceased, the founder of the People's bank. Mr. Kemble was assistant cashier and a director as well. He did not take a very active part in the operation of the bank, being there as a representative of his father's estate. On cross-examination he denied having any bias against anybody connected with the failure of the bank, and said neither he nor his mother was behind the prosecution.

When asked what Hopkins' duties were, he replied:

"He was the whole bank." While this witness was on the stand the district attorney gained a signal victory by securing the admission of the minute book of the bank, in which Cashier Hopkins kept a record of the meetings of board of directors. The particular entry bearing on the Quay case which the district attorney was anxious to get in, is under date of Aug. 3, 1896. It reads:

"The only offering for a loan before the board was the note of (Senator) Arthur Kennedy and R. R. Quay endorsed by M. S. Quay, with stock of — attached. It was agreed to make this loan provided R. R. Quay complied with the president's request for a certain letter."

The "certain letter" is the one which is regarded as the most damaging evidence against Senator Quay's son. It was as follows:

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA, }
TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
HARRISBURG, July 31, 1896.
James McManes, Esq., People's Bank, Philadelphia:

"DEAR SIR—On Monday we will mail you a check for $100,000 for credit of commonwealth of Pennsylvania general fund, which will make a credit to our account of $600,000. The understanding is that I am not to draw against any part of this deposit until the Hon. R. R. Quay has paid or arranged satisfactory to you the loan of $100,000, which you are to make him next week."

"Very truly,
"B. F. HAYWOOD,
"State Treasurer."

The defense objected strenuously to the minute book, saying that although the $100,000 note bears Senator Quay's endorsement, he knew nothing whatever of the letter from Haywood and had nothing to do with the juggling of state money indicated by it. The district attorney claimed that the loan was virtually made to Senator Quay and that Haywood received interest on the deposit. Judge Biddle said he would overrule the objection, as the offer tended to prove the existence of a conspiracy.

WATCHING WORK ON THE POTTERY

Curious Crowds Are Seen There Every

Families Came to Town This Week.

Residents of Virginia avenue are of the opinion the street should be improved, and with this end in view will probably petition council within the next month to do the work. The street is at present in a deplorable condition. Pedestrians cross Lake's run on a foot bridge only a few feet wide while teamsters drive through the water. When the street was first laid out it had a width of 50 feet but at the lower end near the railroad it is not more than 25 feet wide, caused by a large amount of sewer pipe being stored over the line. When the new pottery is completed the street will be extensively traveled and it should be improved as soon as possible.

Everybody Glad.
The people of East End are jubilant now that work has actually commenced upon the erection of the new Laughlin pottery. All day yesterday and today small crowds of men went to the place, and after watching the workmen awhile returned to their homes. Several women were also seen peeping over the high fence watching the progress of the work. Contractors McHenry and Schmelzenbach were seen yesterday in regard to when the work on the foundation would commence, and the latter gentleman stated that the first load of stone was delivered on the ground yesterday morning and the stone masons would start Monday. The brick for the walls and kilns has been ordered, but will not be delivered until the switch is built. Work on the latter, it is said, will start not later than next Monday.

Be proud of your ballot. Cast it for A. H. McCoy.

He will make a good official. Vote for him. Who? J. E. McDonald, of course.

The Pastor Preached.
Another interesting service was held in the Second Presbyterian church, last night. The attendance was very good, and the pastor, Rev. N. M. Crowe, preached an interesting sermon. Tonight Dr. John Lloyd Lee will speak. No services will be held tomorrow night, and the program as published in this paper early in the week will be followed Sunday.

Vote for W. A. Tarr for Infirmary Director.

An Annoying Drunk.
A young man, in an intoxicated condition, yesterday afternoon caused the workmen at the Pennsylvania culvert much annoyance. He got on the car track, and when taken from there by a workman laid down on a pile of stones. He was about to fall in the water when a friend appeared and took him home.

A REPUBLICAN CITIZEN

For J. E. McDonald,

Republican Citizen Believes That J. E. McDonald Is Worthy, From Every Standpoint, of the Support of the Republican Voters of East Liverpool, and Urges That We Should Take Pride In Giving Him a Rousing Majority.

EDITOR NEWS REVIEW:—James E. McDonald is my personal friend. I have been intimately acquainted with him for the past 17 years. I have had numerous business transactions with him, and have found him to be a square and honorable business man. He possesses business characteristics which have won him warm commendation. His tenacity of purpose has become a by-word among his acquaintances. He had full faith that he would eventually be able to have a handsome bridge span the Ohio river at this point. He was laughed at and ridiculed respecting this matter; but he persevered and won out, and the citizens of East Liverpool point with pride to the connecting link with West Virginia.

He believed that he could secure great industries and persuade them to locate in this section. Again he was the subject of much merriment; but the result has demonstrated his wisdom and forethought, and we shall, ere long, have a splendid rolling mill in our immediate vicinity.

He believed that he would be able to induce railroad transportation other than that in existence at this point. Again was he called visionary and flighty. But there was method in his madness, and the result of his battle will be of inestimable value to East Liverpool and the surrounding country.

Why do I call him deserving of place and position? What right have I, his friend, to urge that he is worthy of your franchise? What has he done for East Liverpool?

First, he is a business man, capable and trustworthy, energetic and pushing, possessing characteristics which are much-to-be-desired in an official.

Second, he has demonstrated that he is worthy of your confidence and esteem. For 17 years he has resided in your midst, a Republican of Republicans, stalwart and true, always and ever working for the best interests and success of the party. He is YOUR HOME CANDIDATE, and you have a right, all things being equal, to cast your ballot for your home man, and feel proud that you have such a representative in the field. Other points are being canvassed very earnestly from this standpoint, and other candidates are urging that they should have the solid vote of their home constituency. My friend, J. E. McDonald, will not urge this feature, nor will he say a single word against his opponent. McDonald believes in a clean canvass, and I am very proud of this fact—proud that my friend is deserving and that I have a right to honor him.

And, finally, he has done much for East Liverpool. How? By inducing enterprises to center at this point. The ball has been started rolling by J. E. McDonald, and, just as sure as fate, new and extensive business enterprises, manufactories, etc., will be attracted to this great business center. The facilities for transportation cannot be excelled. The sites are all that men can ask for. The outlook is that East Liverpool will bloom and blossom like the rose. And J. E. McDonald has demonstrated the fact that he had full faith in this desired consummation when others faltered and doubted. Surely, J. E. McDonald has done much for East Liverpool.

Believing this, and being proud of my friend and co-worker, the friend and warm advocate of the workingman and mechanic, I earnestly urge that you shall cast your ballots for our home candidate for sheriff, Mr. James E. McDonald, on Saturday, April 15, 1899.

REPUBLICAN CITIZEN.

Elijah W. Hill has been a toiler all his life. He is the warm friend of the workingman and mechanic. He is a Unionist from principle, staunch and true. By hard work and earnest study, by night and by day, he has educated himself to that standard by which he will do honor to the people he represents. Workingmen and mechanics, toilers everywhere, cast your ballots for Elijah W. Hill for the berth of Representative on next Saturday April 15.

COLLAR BONE BROKEN.

A. G. Smith Was Thrown From His Buggy at Lisbon.

LISBON, April 14.—[Special.]—A. G. Smith, president of the Lisbon Gas company, met with an accident Thursday afternoon. He had stopped his team at the electric light plant, thrown the lines around the whip and was getting out of the buggy when the horses became frightened and started to run, throwing Mr. Smith into the street. His collar bone was broken and he was badly bruised. Mr. Smith is 83 years old. The horses ran along West Washington to Walnut, and to a point near their owner's residence, where they collided with a heavy wagon. The horses were not hurt, but Mr. Lack, driver of the wagon, has a bruised hand.

An honest man, whose word is as good as his bond, carries with him a recommendation unsurpassed, and he deserves recognition at the hands of the masses. Such a man is Elijah W. Hill. No man in East Liverpool can truthfully say aught against him. Cast your ballot for Elijah W. Hill on Saturday, April 15.

Remember that W. A. Tarr will especially look after the interests of Southern Columbiana county if he is selected for Infirmary Director. He is a native of Yellow Creek township.

East Liverpool should stand by her home candidate for Sheriff, J. E. McDonald, a friend of the masses, a worker for our city.

L. C. HOOPES.

His Record as Infirmary Director Is Above Reproach.

L. C. Hoopes, who is a candidate for renomination as infirmary director, is so well known in East Liverpool that to mention his name recalls him to mind. His record is above reproach, and no word can be said against him. He has always performed his duties conscientiously and well, and certainly deserves the support he seeks. Mr. Hoopes is a man who ever has the interests of the county at heart, and is deserving of a big vote tomorrow.

J. E. McDONALD.

He has started big wheels of prosperity for the city of East Liverpool, and for this entire section, and he deserves the warm thanks of the workingmen of East Liverpool and vicinity, and the toilers ought to show their appreciation of this fact by casting their ballots for J. E. McDonald for Sheriff on Saturday, April 15.

Hon. A. H. McCoy is the choice of the masses for the position of State Senator. He will do honor to the state and to the county. He is a manly man. You will make no mistake in casting your ballot for him on Saturday, April 15.

FOR REPRESENTATIVE.

The People of Salem Appreciate Elijah W. Hill.

The following article, clipped from the Salem Herald, speaks volumes for our young townsman. Our East Liverpool voters have just cause to be proud of Elijah W. Hill. Show your appreciation on Saturday by giving him your votes:

"The race for representative is, in all probability, the most hotly contested of the three, inasmuch as there are three strong men entered, W. B. McCord, East Liverpool; Elijah W. Hill, East Liverpool; and Samuel Buell, of this city. McCord, in the earlier part of the fight, was a strong factor and the impression was that he would win the prize in a walkover. The withdrawal of a number of candidates has concentrated the vote to a certain extent, and the later entering of the race by Buell took from McCord a large vote from the northern part of the county, on which he had largely relied. This leaves Buell and Hill the masters of the situation. Of the two in this city, Buell will have the largest following and will poll a large vote. He is well known and is making an aggressive campaign. The prospects for his nomination look exceptionally bright if the vote in the southern part of the county can be badly split by Hill and McCord. Hill, however, is a dangerous factor. He is aggressive, young, well educated, has a pleasing manner and possesses ideas which are in accordance with the times, and would make himself conspicuous in the legislature. He is at present a justice of the peace in East Liverpool, where he is a great favorite, especially among the pottery workers and other laborers. He is an ideal campaigner, and since the opening of the fight has met personally fully one-half of the voters of the county and expects to meet the rest before the county primaries. Hill certainly is a lively candidate, and it would appear that he who beats him will land the coveted plum. Certainly no candidate should overlook him in the race."

PURE FOOD PRODUCTS.

All the Ladies Are Visiting at Frank Oyster's.

Why? Because the Pure Food Products are attracting general attention. Great crowds are daily visiting this fine establishment, corner of Cook and Broadway, where the courteous lady demonstrator answers all questions and exhibits the magnificent goods of Heinz & Co., Pittsburgh.

Aside from this, Frank E. Oyster & Co. keep always on hand the finest line of groceries, provisions and green goods in the city, and sell at reasonable rates.

AIDED BY KINDRED CHARACTERS

Connected With the Old Council, of Most Unsavoury Reputation—The Action of the Expiring Members Meets With Hot Condemnation.

To clean and honest citizens of East
Liverpool, men who believe in justice
and fair play, the writer dedicates this article, satisfied that honorable men
will back and support an honest man in
the publication of a clean, fearless
journal, dedicated to the Right, with malice toward none and charity for all.
Read the following carefully and give
fair judgment:

A councilman is supposed to be a full grown man, able to read, write and reason intelligently, and to attend to business interests in a business way.
He should be an honest man, although
this rule is occasionally a dead letter,
superinduced by the entry of foul and unclean life in the field of politics. He should be a man who will cast aside
pettishness and childishness, and let reason and manhood control him in his actions as a representative of the people.
He should be a just and honorable man,
and his promises, as a councilman and
as a leader, should be kept inviolate.

In the month of April, 1898, the city
clerk's report was published in the three papers of this city, in conformity
with a motion now on the city clerk's books, each paper receiving one-third of
the full rate allowed by law for the publication of legal printing. All ordinances and regular city printing, mayor's proclamation, publication of polling places, etc., have been printed in the said three papers, as per agreement, until Tuesday night, April 11, 1899, when certain members of council, influenced
by feelings of hate and spitefulness
against the NEWS REVIEW, because it
advocated clean and pure city government, entered into a side agreement
with the lower region daily and the weekly Tribune to cut out the NEWS
REVIEW from a share of the city printing, in open defiance of the agreement
of council with this paper, said agreement not expiring until May 11, 1899,
as per arrangement with the city clerk,
he having been instructed by the OLD
council to enter into this agreement
with Manager Palmer, who accepted
the said proposition of council, and who has acted his part to the letter in good faith and as becomes an honorable man
and true journalist.

We have it from reliable authority
that a man connected with the lower region sheet, knowing of the hostility
to this paper on the part of Stewart,
Challis and Olmhausen, acted the part of a sneak and trickster, and endeavored
to secure the exclusive publication of the city clerk's report, barring out the
NEWS REVIEW and the Tribune.
Jeremiah Simms in some manner caught
on to this skullduggery and made himself solid, agreeing to publish the report
at one-third of the full legal rate, but RELIGIOUSLY (?) kept the trickery of the
sneaks a secret from his brother journalist of the NEWS REVIEW, who certainly would have treated him in a more fair and honorable manner had
the situation been reversed.

And on the night of Tuesday, April 11,
1899, to their shame and discredit be it
said, these councilmanic sneaks carried
UTTERLY DISCREDITABLE SCHEME INTO EFFECT. Shame upon such narrow-minded creatures, using the public
money for the gratification of
their petty spite and malice, robbing the NEWS REVIEW of that which they had pledged themselves to grant it, and robbing the readers of the NEWS REVIEW of the privilege of reading the clerk's report.

Can such skullduggery succeed? Will
the action of these spiteful little children
stand the test of law? Is a councilmanic obligation worth nothing? Can such a
body break promises with impunity?

These are pertinent questions, and the OLD council MUST and SHALL answer
them, as the matter will be brought before the next session of council, when
refusal to do justice to the NEWS REVIEW
will result in an appeal to the higher
court at Lisbon.

Yesterday, accompanied by a witness,
Manager Palmer visited city hall and
interviewed City Clerk James N. Hanley, demanding of him the copy of the city clerk's report, stating that the NEWS REVIEW stood ready to have the subject matter set up and inserted in its columns. The city clerk refused to grant the request for said copy, stating that he had been ordered by the city

against alum.

menacers to health of the present day.

council to give said copy to the Tribune
and the lower region sheet,
and not to the NEWS REVIEW. He was requested to notify the president of
council of the demand made by Manager
Palmer for said copy, and courteously
made answer that he would gladly comply with the request.

The bill for the printing of said city
clerk's report will be presented to the present council at the proper time, and if refusal is made as to payment of the same by that body, the court at Lisbon
will settle the matter.

THE SECOND TERM FALLACY.

Unsafe and Evil Men Must Step Down and Out.

The time has come when good Republicans can no longer afford to support
that unwritten law which says "no matter what a man's character or record
is he must have a second term." Mr.
Blake asks for your support because he is a Republican and a workman. He asks you to sample his workmanship at
you to examine his workmanship in the state senate. If his work at the bench
was as miserable as that in the senate,
he would certainly soon be without a job.
True Republicanism says: Be a true
representative of the people. This is what our present senator has not been.
This is why the good people of the county are asking all good Republicans
to vote for A. H. McCoy for state senator. He too is a workman, and he dares
to ask you to examine all the work of his life, as a man, as a laborer, as a soldier, as a legislator. He has been true
to every trust committed to him. Do not fail to vote for him tomorrow for state senator.

FAMOUS OLD HARTFORD

Farragut's Flagship to Show Her Teeth Again.

Is Equipped With Up to Date Guns to Replace Her Old Smoothbores. She is a Good Cruiser and Will Be Valuable on the Pacific—The Hartford's History.

The glorious old sloop of war Hartford, from whose wooden sides thundered the broadsides of Farragut, is to be made an effective part of our navy once more. She was built at the Boston navy yard in the year 1858, and has lately been thoroughly overhauled, repaired and refitted at the navy yard, Mare Island. A modern battery has been placed on board and an additional deck added (a light spar deck), covering her main battery from the weather as well as from injury from small gun projectiles during action. The beams and stringers of this deck are steel, with steel angles and fastening connections to the wood hull, and these are covered with a substantial deck of California wood.

On this upper or spar deck, around the rail, is mounted a secondary battery of four 6 pounder and one 3 pounder rapid fire guns, two Colts and one 5 inch gun at the bow on the center line. Below this, on the gun deck, are mounted twelve 5 inch rapid fire guns. This battery of modern guns is in strong contrast to the ancient smoothbores that made the Hartford so famous under the command of the invincible Farragut in the civil war. It is also superior to any of the batteries placed on our late steel gunboats, and but for the danger that would result to her in action, due to splinters and fire, owing to her wooden hull, she would be more than a match for most of our new vessels, also those of foreign navies of near her displacement.

The vessel is sheathed with copper, and having also a large sail spread she is capable of making long voyages without being obliged to linger near coaling stations. With new boilers and the engines put in thorough repair, a speed of 12 knots on 2,000 horsepower is expected, while under sail alone, with a stiff breeze, she is expected to make a speed of nine knots at least.

At a previous session of congress money was appropriated to keep this historic vessel in repair and in active service—a most commendable provision. It is noted that foreign governments keep their celebrated naval vessels afloat and in service for generations. Nelson's flagship, the Victory, is one of these.

The dimensions, etc., of the Hartford are: Length between perpendiculars, 225 feet; breadth, 44 feet; mean draft of water, 18 feet 2 inches; capacity of coal bunkers, 286 tons; complement of officers, 32; complement of crew, 212. It is expected that the vessel will be ready for sea about Sept. 30, 1899.

The Hartford was just four years old when Admiral Farragut, commanding the western gulf blockading squadron, of which the famous sloop of war was the flagship, determined to force the passage of the forts and take New Orleans. The feat was unquestionably the most brilliant achievement in naval history, and has only recently been paralleled by Dewey's glorious victory at Manila bay. The course that Farragut's fleet had to follow to reach the forts was known to be thickly mined, and all manner of terrors were apprehended, but there was no wavering. "Hang the torpedoes!" cried Farragut. "Go ahead!" And the robust language of the old fire eater took its place among sentences historical.

Led by the Hartford, from whose sides there belched forth fire, smoke and metal in a continuous stream, the squadron passed the Confederate forts, Jackson and St. Philip, and took New Orleans on the following day. Farragut then attacked and captured the principal gulf ports of Texas, completing the glorious task he had set for himself.

The name of Farragut was henceforth to be enrolled among our leading naval heroes, and the splendid old Hartford is designed to possess the same historical importance to the American people as Nelson's flagship Victory to the British. The Victory's fighting days are over. Her old age is being passed peacefully in harbor amid no more exciting surroundings than the ordinary humdrum of commerce provides. Her sole mission now is to stir to patriotic fervor the feelings of those of the queen's subjects who climb aboard the gray old ship and meditate ecstatically on the glory of Britain as they gaze at the brass plate on which is inscribed, "Here Nelson fell."—A more useful life is ahead for the Hartford. American patriots can proudly walk her decks as she plows the waves armed with guns of the newest type, a more formidable craft by far than that from which Farragut flung his famous defiance to the enemy's explosives. It should be a gala day throughout America when the Hartford turns her prow seaward once more.—Washington Post

Music Tried on Wild Beasts.

of music on the different animals. The first victim was the hyena. The animal at first seemed alarmed by a wild and shrill concerto. When Schumann's "Nocturne in F" was played, however, the animal drew nearer to the bars of the cage and seemed anxious to approach the instrument. The first tunes tried on the tigers met with little effect, but when "Traumerel" was played they glowered at the violinist. The other animals were not so responsive, and one of the bears tried to wreck the violin. The monkeys joined in the music.—Chicago Tribune.

FOUGHT WITH A MAD WOLF.

Chillicothe (Mo.) Athlete in the Fight of His Life.

For ten minutes the other night Gene Miller, a prominent young society man and athlete of Chillicothe, Mo., had the fight of his life with a mad wolf. He had only his hands with which to defend himself from the infuriated animal. He was in a section of town generally deserted at nightfall and confined in a narrow alley from which his frantic cries for help scarcely reached the saunterers who finally came to his rescue.

Miller lies in bed covered with bandages from head to foot and with 25 distinct wounds of the infuriated animal's teeth on his body, besides innumerable scratches from its claws. The flesh of one thigh is almost torn from the bone, and there is much doubt of Miller's recovery from the wounds, besides the added danger of possible hydrophobia. The wolf was Miller's pet, an animal of unusual size and for several months a notable curiosity of the city. Never before had it shown viciousness toward Miller. His control of the animal had always been considered remarkable, and he fondled it with thorough confidence. The animal was ordinarily kept in a cage as a precaution for the safety of others about the hardware store with which its master is connected, but when alone Miller allowed the wolf the freedom of the building, and often it has sat on its haunches beside its owner for hours when work on books or correspondence kept him down town.

When Miller went down town the other night, he found that the animal had broken out of its cage, and, upon making search, discovered it in an alley in the rear of the store. Apprehending no trouble, he approached his pet and sought to grasp it. Instantly the wolf sprang at his master, striking him full in the breast. Fortunately Miller withstood the force of the animal's jump and did not fall. Before he had fully recovered from his surprise the wolf's teeth were sunk deep into his shoulder, and then began his remarkable battle.

There was no light in the alley. Few persons ever passed that way at night. Not even a stick or stone was within reach, and he had no opportunity to grasp a weapon, even if one had been at hand. Loudly shrieking for help, he sought to escape, but the wolf clung to him with the tenacity of a leech. Twice, thrice, a half dozen times he tore the animal from its grasp, but he could not kill it with his bare hands, and he could not get by it to the one entrance to the alley. Again and again the wolf jumped on his master, each time inflicting horrible wounds, and still no foothold promised succor.

Torn and faint from pain and loss of blood, young Miller fought foot by foot to the mouth of the alley. Then, just as he fell at last before the force of another leap of the maddened animal, with senses all but gone and the wolf teeth in his flesh, he heard voices and fainted. The rescuers were close at hand, but could not reach him in time to prevent the wolf's further mutilation of his body as he lay unconscious, and they had scarce appeared in sight before they, too, were put on the defensive.

But Miller's fight had been so brave and muscular that the wolf had felt its effects. Each of the three men who came to the rescue of the unfortunate Miller exhibits wounds inflicted in the further battle with the wolf, which for a time drove them back. Returning to the still unconscious form of Miller, the wolf fastened its teeth into his thigh and was taken unawares at the time, the three rescuers, stirred by the horror of the situation to a point almost of forgetfulness, throwing themselves pell mell on to the brute. Fortunately one of the men carried a large pocketknife, and it was with this weapon that the mad animal was finally dispatched.—Special St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

The Joy of Heaven.

The joy of heaven is a never ending song, a communion of all pure and blessed souls, and the most humble in the adoring multitude may look with boldness toward the throne and say, "Abba, Father!" It is a perfect home. Oh, that ours were nearer to the pattern of it. We may make them so. Where virtue and charity and contentment are met together at an altar dedicated to God's worship there life is an earnest of the heavenly life, and home is lit with the sunlight of the Father's house.—Rev. D. J. Burrell, D. D.

Mr. Goschen's estimates and naval programme show that, while Great Britain may be willing to disarm, it will only be after others have shown a practical disposition to take the initiative.—Pittsburg Dispatch

RETURNS WILL BE LATE

VOTING IS TO BEGIN AT TWO

If a Heavy Vote Is Polled In This Place the Result Will Not Be Known Until Far Into the Night—Poll Books and Tickets Being Given Out Today.

That part of East Liverpool's population that will be interested in knowing the result of the Republican primary election tomorrow night, will not go to bed until a late hour for the polls in this city will not close until 8 o'clock.

The announcement was made yesterday on the order of the central committee that the polls would open at 1 o'clock in the afternoon and close at 7, city time. Later it was discovered that the rules adopted by the county committee provided that the election should be conducted between those hours, legal time. As that makes a difference in this place it can be readily understood that the polls will open at 2 o'clock and close at 8 o'clock as time is recorded. It will be the same throughout the county.

All the poll books and tickets for the election are here, and were being given out today by Geo. H. Owen, city chairman, and all preparations for the contest are complete. The contestants for the various places are working hard, and it is expected that a large vote will be polled since interest in the various contests to say the least is pronounced.

J. E. McDonald is the true friend of the workingman and mechanic. Don't you believe anything to the contrary, no matter who makes the assertion. McDonald's record will stand the test of close investigation in this particular. Vote for him for Sheriff. He will do his duty, but will not persecute or needlessly oppress any man.

Vote for W. A. Tarr—the best man for Infirmary Director.

HOWARD BLAKE

Has Taken a Position With the Potters' National Bank.

Howard Blake has been made messenger at the Potters' National. The young man is a graduate of the front office of the News Review, and is without question the best who ever took that degree. He is gentlemanly, trustworthy and truthful, and possesses those qualities that go to make the real man. He has the congratulations of the force, and the belief that his advancement will be in accordance with his splendid qualifications.

Vote for Elijah W. Hill.

J. E. McDonald will not indulge in dirty flings against his opponent, nor will he allow his friends to do so. Jim McDonald is a manly man. He's the kind of a man who gets my vote, and he ought to get the vote of every Republican of East Liverpool on next Saturday. He'll make a good Sheriff.

Be proud of your ballot. Cast it for A. H. McCoy.

W. A. Tarr, candidate for Infirmary Director, hails from the Southern End of the County. Remember the home man. There are two to elect.

How a Diamond Was Recovered With a Clamshell Bucket.

Dredging has been successfully resorted to in recovering a valuable diamond ring that was lost in Petaluma creek, California. Recently the owner of the ring was standing on a bridge just below Petaluma, Cal., across an arm of the creek, when his diamond ring slipped from his finger and fell through a crack in the bridge and into about eight feet of water. The stone in the ring cost, without the mounting, $800.

The owner hated to give it up, yet he did not know how to go to work to get it out. In his perplexity he applied to Captain John Hackett, a man of experience in dredging, though on a somewhat larger scale than hunting for so small a thing as a ring. The loser of the ring had been thoughtful enough to mark the place in the bridge where the ring fell through. Hackett rigged a small clamshell bucket, to be operated by hand. With a rope this was dropped through the bridge at the place marked, and a bucket of mud was brought from the bottom of the bayou. It was taken to the bank and washed out. A second and then a third was tried, and in the third was found the ring.—Stockton (Cal.) Independent.

WILL GO TO PALESTINE.

Members of the Church of God to Settle Near Jerusalem.

Leroy Dickinson of St. Louis, Gratiot county, Mich., has organized a party of ten which will start early in May for the Holy Land. In the party will be Leroy Dickinson, his mother and two brothers, also James Nichols, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Harrison and Mr. and Mrs. James Emory.

The colony will have enough money from the sale of their St. Louis property to purchase about 200 acres of land in the vicinity of Jerusalem, and expect to make it their future home.

They are members of the Church of God, and it is their belief that the people of God will be gathered together prior to the coming of Christ, and that Jerusalem will be the gathering place. They want to be on the spot in time. It is the intention of the party to engage in missionary work and to devote most of their time to religious services.—Chicago Times-Herald.

CAREY CAST ADRIFT.

He Is No Longer a Part of the Minneapolis Team.

Press dispatches this morning say: "Carey will play third base for Washington for a time at least. Manager Irwin has decided that Mercer will be more valuable to the team as a pitcher."

"George Carey has been cast adrift by the Minneapolis club. Carey is one of the best fielding first basemen in the country but is a weak hitter," says a dispatch.

The many friends of Carey will learn with regret of his release, but there is no doubt he will secure an engagement before the season opens.

Wellsville Will Receive the Support of Liverpool.

The ball players in the city are jubilant over the fact that the Wellsville people are going to have a ball team this season. There will probably be no club here, and many of the players will play with Wellsville. The Wellsville team will receive the hearty support of many of the cranks here who have always wanted a splendid team in this section of the state.

FOUND BEEF EMBALMED.

Harrisburg Undertaker Told of What He Discovered on Refrigerated Beef in Porto Rico.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Dr. W. D. Bigelow, chemist of the agricultural department, told the Wade court of inquiry that the canned corned beef was a wholesome and nutritious product—even more nutritious than fresh beef because of the preponderance of proteids. He also gave the details of his general investigation into the canned beef supply, showing the meat to be a generally satisfactory ration.

Prof. Mallet, professor of chemistry at the University of Virginia, presented a contrary view. He expressed the opinion that a chemical analysis was not a sufficient test of the character of a food product, saying that various conditions necessarily must be considered. He did not regard the canned roast beef as desirable ration.

Rudolph K. Spicer, an undertaker of Harrisburg, said he had discovered crystalline salts on the refrigerator beef in Porto Rico, which reminded him of powders used in embalming.

IN DOUBT WHICH DIED FIRST.

Question That May Cause Trouble in Settling an Estate.

CLEVELAND, April 14.—Concerning the will of the late Wallace C. Andrews of New York, for the establishment and maintenance of a school for girls at Wiloughby, O., Judge John C. Hutchins, postmaster of Cleveland and a cousin of Mr. Andrews, said:

"I sincerely hope that Mr. Andrews' wishes will be carried out, and if they are the school will be a finely endowed institution, because I believe his estate will be found to be worth about $4,000,000. As I understand the will, his entire estate was to go to his wife, and after her death is disposed of as directed. Both perished in the fire. Which died first? It will not surprise me if this causes trouble."

STATESMEN HONORED FIELD.

Prominent Americans and Foreigners Attended the Funeral Services.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Impressive funeral services were held over the remains of the late Justice Stephen J. Field at the Church of the Epiphany. Among those present were President McKinley, Secretaries Wilson, Long and Attorney General Griggs, the British, Russian, French and German ambassadors, the Chinese minister and the diplomatic representatives of other foreign countries and others.

Rev. Satterlee, the bishop of Washington, assisted by Rev. Mackin Smith, the pastor of the late justice, officiated. The simple burial service of the Episcopal church was read and the choir sang "Lead, Kindly Light," "Rock of Ages" and "Nearer, My God, to Thee." Chief Justice Fuller and his associates on the supreme bench acted as honorary pallbearers. The remains were interred in a vault at Rock Creek cemetery, where they will remain temporarily until Mrs. Field decides where they are to be permanently buried.

ELEVEN STEAMERS IN PERIL.

Were Lying in the Ice in the Yukon River.

SEATTLE, Wash., April 14.—According to reports received here 11 steamers of the Yukon river fleet between Russian mission and Dawson are in a critical condition. They were lying in the middle of the stream. When the ice goes out they are liable to be carried down and wrecked on sand bars. The following is a list of the vessels and locations:

Dawson City, four miles above St. James mission.

Governor Stoneman, 25 miles above the mouth of the Tanana river.
May Do, 25 miles below Rampart.

Sent a Present For a Fayette County (Pa.) Baby Namesake.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., April 14.—The following letter was received by Thomas S. Woods of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad:

"FLAGSHIP OLYMPIA,
"MANILA BAY, March 11."

Mr. Thomas S. Woods, Uniontown, Pa.:

"DEAR SIR—I am just in receipt of your letter of Jan. 23, announcing the birth of a boy and informing me that he had been named George Dewey Woods. I greatly appreciate the honor thus accorded me and thank you most heartily for the honor. Your letter reached me enclosed in a note from your son, John W. Woods, who explained that he wished to deliver personally your letter, but that the presence of his regiment on the firing line prevented. With my best wishes for the future welfare of George Dewey Woods, I am, yours truly, GEORGE DEWEY."

President's Portrait Being Painted.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The president gave Mr. Charles Ayre Whipple of New York a sitting for a full length portrait of himself. The portrait is being painted in the private apartments of the White House. Mr. Whipple painted the portraits of ex-President Harrison, General Miles and Secretaries Sherman, Herbert, Tracy and Elkins.

English Painter Died.

Wheeling Street Car Strike.

WHEELING, April 14.—Marshal Thompson decided to go to Parkersburg today and lay the street car situation before United States Judge Jackson, who issued the recent injunction. He said it was likely power would be given to swear in additional deputies, giving him a force sufficient to control the situation. The marshal said he could have made 50 arrests, but he did not want to go to that extent until nothing else would avail. He instructed his chief deputy, Randolph, that in the event of further obstruction of the company's cars he should arrest every obstructionist he could reach. When the company's board of directors meets tomorrow a petition from the business people probably will be presented, imploring a settlement.

Baird Very Low; Hobart Better.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Vice President Hobart was reported to be improving, though he had not yet sufficiently recovered to leave his room. His physicians said that he was better last night than he had been at any time during his illness. Representative Baird of Louisiana showed no material change, and his death was hourly expected.

Cuban Army Rolls Turned Over.

HAVANA, April 14.—The original rolls of the Cuban army were delivered to Governor General Brooke last evening. Senor Domingo Mendez Capite, vice president of the recently dissolved military assembly and long prominent in Cuban affairs, volunteered to attempt to obtain them from the special executive committee that survived the assembly. The rolls were delivered to him on his first request.

Tried to Ignite Death Watch.

LANCASTER, Pa., April 14.—Ralph Wireback, who has been sentenced to be hanged on May 17 for the murder of D. B. Landis, attempted to set on fire his death watch, Jacob Shenk, but but failed.

Charged With Conspiracy.

NEW YORK, April 14.—A. S. Colyar, Jr., was arraigned in court on a charge of conspiracy to procure the arrest, to kidnap and confine Nicholas A. Heckman. The examination was set for today. Colyar's bail was placed at $2,500.

New Sunday School Ritual.

best made by the most skilled custom tailors, and equal in every respect to those made to order for double the price.

The six button vest, popular style, the satin faced sack coats, the semi-dress black frock, to be worn with neat grey striped trousers, the nobby short top coats. Every suit, every garment thoroughly shrunk in the piece. Such is the meager description of our spring '99 display, eclipsing all previous showing, making actual competition utterly impossible.

COLONEL BAINE

Talked of the New Woman and the Old Man.

Colonel Baine last night at the Grand Opera House lectured from the subject, "The New Woman and the Old Man," instead of "Among the Masses," as had been announced.

The colonel seldom changes, and his lecture was characteristic. He supported higher education for women, and deplored the use of money for tobacco and whisky in men. He touched upon the pleasant relations between North and South and England and America, and his sentiments were repeatedly applauded.

ELECTION BOARD

Settled Up Spring Election Affairs Today.

LIBERON, April 14.—[Special]—The board of deputy supervisors of election are meeting here today for the purpose of settling matters connected with the spring election. They will certify the names of the persons who have been elected justice of the peace to the governor. Many ballots, curiously marked, have been submitted.

In Office a Year.

Just one year ago today Mayor Bough took his office. There were no cases on that day for his disposal, and he spent the day making himself acquainted with the duties of his office.

Two Hours Late.

The Cleveland train, due in this city at 12:15, was two hours late today. The delay was caused by a freight wreck near Alliance.

Our CARPET Department

is very busy—Working nights now to keep up. But why shouldn't we be busy? Our prices are the lowest. We carry in stock many exclusive designs. We have the largest stock hereabouts of Carpets, Lace Curtains, Matting, Linoleum, Oil Cloths, Window Shades, Portieres and Rugs. In fact we have everything an "up-to-date" Carpet House requires.

But we can do more, and here's an inducement for you.

For this week we have picked out 11 patterns of Tapestry Brussels--the 70c kind--elegant things, Rich, yet tasteful, and as good as they are rich, and have marked them

So those who thought of buying an Ingrain Carpet for the best room can have a Brussels at the same cost.
